Why the Barber?
The Bootleg Hearse.
Worship, a Necessity.
G. M. Buys Opel.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE Rev. Mr. Palmer, Unitarian, of Lynn, Mass., reaches the front page by saying that Herbert Hoover, kissing the Bible on a carefully selected text at his inauguration, had "attempted to connect Bible idolatry with prohibition enforcement."

THE good and reverend gentleman even drags into his criticism of President Hoover "an ignorant itinerant barber about to be electrocuted for the murder of a girl."

President Hoover probably will ask "Why drag in the barber?" and pass on.

He will thank the reverend gentleman for reminding him that, no matter what you do, you will be criticised.

TO MR. RING LARDNER'S statement, "You can bootleg liquor anywhere, except in the five and ten cent stores," you may add that you can find bootleg liquor almost anywhere, in flying machines, prisons, automobiles, even in submarines and baby carriages. Many conveyances are used for transporting it.

BOOTLEGGERS in South Philadelphia stole a hearse from a hospital yard, intending to give their whisky a respectful, mournful ride to its destination in a large coffin. To their horror, after they had stolen the hearse at night, they found in the morning that it contained the body of Catherine Mashkinsky, four months old, and abandoned the hearse as "unlucky."

WHAT Will Rogers calls the "Five and ten prohibition law," five years in jail and $10,000 fine went into effect yesterday in Chicago and the first man caught in the Jones net was Carl Mahnke, a policeman. The Chicago federal district attorney expects 250 indictments per month.

LENIN, long dead, smiling and still lifelike, thanks to skillful embalming, lies in his "shrine" outside the Moscow Kremlin.

Thousands of communists pass, gazing in reverent awe almost worshiping the corpse of their leader.

BELIEVING, as Lenin did, that they have no belief in God, their attitude at the Lenin shrine proves that even those that try not to believe must have something to worship.

As Voltaire said, "If there were no god, it would be necessary to invent one."

IMPRESSIVE figures prove that the radio has come to stay with a vengeance. During 1928 retail sales of radio apparatus totaled $70,877,517.

THE extent to which radio has transformed human life and enlarged its possibilities is understood as little as the importance of printing was understood when Gutenberg began setting up his moveable type.

Printing opened all the knowledge of the world to everybody that could read.

Radio offers the speeches, music, and information of the world to everybody able to listen.

BERLIN reports an agreement by which General Motors for $30,000,000 acquires 76 per cent of Opel-Motors, biggest German automobile concern.

THE presence of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., in Europe makes the purchase probable. Opel has a capacity of 300 automobiles and 5,000 bicycles daily, and will doubtless hereafter produce Chevrolet cars.

THE new immigration law will bring in more Englishmen and Italians, and diminish the number of German, Scandinavian and Irish immigrants. The English and the Italians will be welcome. The country needs men with energy enough to move.

CUTTING down the quota of Germans, Scandinavians and Irish is a misfortune. What would it mean to shut out such a German as Carl Schurz, such a Scandinavian as Col. Lindbergh, such an Irishman as Gen. Phil Sheridan?

FACTORY workers in Russian cities pass resolutions like this: "Shame on Trotzky for selling his political conscience to the capitalist class."

TROTZKY, kicked out of Russia and in need of money, wrote what he thought about Russia, which, without knowing it, is already turning in the direction of capitalism.

WHEN Russian workers have been "free" a little longer they will know that freedom of speech is the first essential of real freedom. Tyranny, under a dictatorship or a soviet government, fears free speech more than dynamite.

BLUE LAWS HEARINGS REFUSED

FIGHT GOES ON TO GET PROMPT ACTION

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH.
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 13.—The drive to modify the "Blue Laws of 1794" received a setback today at a meeting of the House Law and Order Committee.

By an overwhelming vote the committee refused to report out any of the measures designed to change the ancient laws to meet conditions in 1929, and declined to hold a hearing.

REFUSE HEARINGS

The motion to grant a hearing on the modification proposals was made by Representative M. A. Musmanno, Allegheny, sponsor of a measure that would give municipalities the right to hold a referendum on the "blue laws."

No roll call was taken, but the vote against the hearing, according to the members, was better than two to one.

Supporters of the modification measure introduced by Representative James Wettach found some basis for hope in the fact that the committee did not report out the bill with a negative recommendation.

WILL PRESS FIGHT

Had that been the case, 105 votes would have been required to put it on the calendar for action.

While the action of the committee today appeared to be decisive, Wettach stated that he intends to keep up the battle for the passage of the measure. He has informed members of the committee of several amendments that will eliminate features to which supporters of the 1794 laws have objected, and expressed himself as hopeful that he will be able to get some action this session.

GIRL'S $100,000 SUIT AGAINST THAW STARTS

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—Marcia Estardus, of Broadway, who in real life is Mae O'Niell, of the Bronx, would have you know that she is different.

Marcia is suing Harry K. Thaw, well-known man-about-Pittsburgh-and-New York, for $100,000. And it isn't the money she wants.

Oh, no!

The little girl wants vindication and the assurance that Harry will not treat other girls the way he treated her.

Marcia was to relate her troubles with the well-known Thaw to a jury and a judge in Supreme Court this afternoon.

The actress' complaint, which quite naturally lacks the details that her testimony from the witness stand will contain, accuses Thaw of biting her, tearing her clothes and otherwise treating her in an ungentlemanly manner to the extent of $100,000 damages.

It happened at a New Year's Eve party in 1927, the little lady says. Thaw took her to the affair, she says further.

Thaw denies the charges. Miss Estardus, according to Texas Guinan's perennial guest, made herself a nuisance by trying to sell him $50 tickets to a party he did not wish to attend.

STILLMAN ASKS TRIAL SHIFTED

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—James A. Stillman, multi-millionaire, today revealed he will seek a change of venue for trial of the $500,000 damage suit brought against him by Fred Beauvais, Canadian Indian guide. Stillman will make his motion in the Supreme Court here March 21.

Beauvais was the central figure in the Stillman divorce litigation some years ago.

Beauvais' complaint contends that agents for the millionaire offered him $250,000 to make a false confession that he was the father of "Baby" Guy Stillman, now aged 10.

The divorce suit, which created a sensation when it was tried, resulted in a victory for Mrs. Stillman. Since then the millionaire and his wife have become reconciled.

BIBLE KILLED IN SPEED TRY

BOULEVARD SMASHUP KILLS 2

Two men, riding a stolen motorcycle out Bigelow boulevard, were killed today when it collided with a truck near the 1400 block.

The dead are John P. Hornett, 24, of 1804 Forbes street, and Morris Shapira, 35, of 2244 Center avenue. Hornett was dead when an ambulance into which the two were placed arrived at West Penn Hospital.

Shapira died as he was placed on the operating table.

TRUCK DRIVER HELD

When a record of the crash reached Central Police Station it was learned that the motorcycle had been stolen early today from in front of the home of David Brokner at 72 Roberts street. Brokner knew neither of the dead men.

Elmer Schowalder, 24, of 2104 East street, driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. His brother, Wilbert, 26, was held as a material witness. The truck is owned by International Furniture Company, McKees Rocks.

According to Schowalder's statement to police, he was driving west in the boulevard and the motorcycle was traveling in the opposite direction at a high rate of speed.

"OUT OF CONTROL"

CAN'T FIND FORNEY IN N. Y.

James McGinley, Allegheny County detective, who is in New York searching for Alfred W. Forney, missing racketeer, told the Sun-Telegraph by telephone today that he had not been able to locate the absent defendant.

"I've tried the hospitals and sanitariums, but Forney wasn't registered as a patient," McGinley reported. "I've checked the hotels and couldn't find him, and last night I visited lots of cabarets on Broadway and didn't find out anything. I'll probably leave tonight for home."

STEAMERS CHECKED

"How about the outgoing steamers?" McGinley was asked.

"I've checked them, too. I learned that Forney left the Roosevelt Hotel last Thursday and I've checked every steamship that's pulled out of New York since then."

NO CLUES

Thus does failure greet every move to locate the confessed racketeer who wasn't on hand Monday to stand trial on 16 gambling charges in connection with the operation of an alleged slot machine ring here.

McGinley did establish, he reported, that there was such a physician as Dr. J. R. Emery, whose name was signed to the medical certificate, presented to Judge James B. Drew on Monday, which attested that Forney was ill of influenza, too ill to undergo trial.

"I'm to have a conference with Emery tonight," McGinley said.

"This other Forney," McGinley continued, "at the Princeton Club isn't any relation to Al. His

WILKINS TO GO SOUTH AGAIN

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—Hardly home from a season's work in the Antarctic, Capt. Sir George Hubert Wilkins today was making plans to return to the South Polar wastes for further exploration next fall.

Discussing the problem confronting his expedition with the approach of winter in the southern hemisphere, Capt. Wilkins said:

"Due to unusual seasonal conditions in the Antarctic we are unable to continue our observation work through any other months than those from November to March as the days become too short and, for the period corresponding to the New York summer the area within the Antarctic Circle is in almost total darkness."

Aided by the observations made on the expedition, Capt. Wilkins has formulated plans for the inauguration of 12 meteorological stations to be functioning by 1933. These will all be located in the southern hemisphere, according to plans, but later on it is hoped to extend the station system into the Arctic region.

TURNS OVER AT 202 MI. PER HOUR

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, DAYTONA BEACH, March 13.—(AP.)—Lee Bible was killed here today in an attempt to establish a new automobile speed record.

Bible crashed into the sand dunes while traveling at a speed of 202 miles an hour in J. M. White's Triplex racing machine.

The accident occurred some three miles down the beach on the north end of the measured mile course, the machine spinning around on the course and plunging into the sand dunes.

A Pathe News cameraman who was hit by the machine also was killed.

The accident occurred after Bible had negotiated the mile run at 202 miles an hour. The machine was demolished. The photographer's name was Travers. A panic reigned among spectators in the grandstand as cars and an ambulance rushed to the scene of the tragedy.

Newspapermen who examined the tires on the Triplex this morning found that those on the rear of the huge spedater were badly cut as though from a contact with conch shells during yesterday's trial runs. The fabric was visible through some of the cuts. It was said that White had no extra tires.

NOBILE RESIGNS COMMISSION

LONDON, March 13.—(INS.)—Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader of the ill-fated Arctic expedition in the Italian dirigible, Italia, last year, has resigned his rank and retired from the Italian army, it is officially announced in Rome, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome this afternoon.

His resignation has been accepted, the dispatch addded.

Hoover's Son Proves Identity, Gets Plane

HACKENSACK, N. J., March 13.—(INS.)—Herbert Hoover, Jr., is not yet sufficiently well known to be promptly recognized as the President's son, it became known today when employes at the Fokker aircraft plant told of young Hoover's visit here yesterday.

Although he repeatedly informed workers here of his name he had to produce "proof" before he was believed. After inspecting the plant Hoover made a short flight.

METRO CHARTER FACES OPPOSITION AT CAPITOL HEARING

WOMAN HELD IN FILM STAR TAX QUIZ

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 13.—(AP.)—Anxiety pervaded the starry motion picture firmament in Hollywood today as many film celebrities wondered how much they will owe Uncle Sam after investigation of their earnings, and whether they will be held responsible for any improper acts attributed by federal income tax officials to Marjorie Berger.

Miss Berger, an income tax counselor of Hollywood, was indicted by a federal grand jury here yesterday on 24 counts of alleged criminal fraud in preparing fraudulent income tax returns for many prominent film personages.

EVASION IN FRAUD

Government officials declared she admitted in defrauding the treasury of more than a million dollars in recent years.

While the apprehension of the film celebrities may not be wholly unfounded was evidenced by the announcement of United States Attorney S. W. McNabb that several members of the movie fans may be indicted in conspiracy indictments.

One thing which may save the movie stars involved from criminal prosecution may be the difficulty of proving criminal intent in the submission of the tax returns

STARS READY TO PAY

In any event, said the Federal officials, the actors and actresses would be glad to pay whatever financial penalties the government may assess rather than face criminal prosecution.

One of the disclosures in the indictment was that the gross 1927 income of Rod La Rocque, as "appraised" by Miss Berger, was $121,-

She made deductions totaling $70, leaving a net income of $77,- upon which a tax of $10,648 was

The government charged that La Rocque's gross income was $182,779, that deductions should have been only $9,667, leaving a net income of $173,111, upon which a tax of $34,291 should have been paid.

Witnesses heard by the grand jury included La Rocque, Mitchell Lewis, Dorothy Mackail and William Boyes.

KILLER ADMITS AIDING ESCAPE OF JAWORSKI

DETROIT, Mich., March 13.—(AP.)—Harry Watson, serving a life term for the murder of Police Sergt. George Barstad in the Detroit News hold-up last June, admitted on cross-examination yesterday that he helped Paul Jaworski, executed in Pennsylvania this year, in his daring escape from the Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) jail in August, 1927, for which Paul's brother, Sam, is serving a 25-year sentence.

A perjury charge in connection with the case is still pending against another brother, Tom, who, with Frank Hallis and Leon Webber, is being tried here on a charge of participating in the holdup and murder for which Watson is serving. Watson turned state's evidence against the trio.

WARDEN AIDS DEFENSE

By a quirk of fate, Warden John McNeil, of the county jail, is to be an important witness in behalf of Tom Pallas, Jaworski's brother.

In response to a subpena, McNeil will leave tonight for Detroit. He will take along a big book. In that book are the signatures of half a dozen Detroiters to a statement that they were unable to identify Pallas as one of the men involved in the Detroit crime.

Two Detroit men, Joe Baysdell and Theodore F. Semla, were placed on trial here today, charged with perjury and conspiracy in the trial of Sam Pallas, convicted liberator of his brother, Paul Jaworski.

Pittsburgh a World Art and Cultural Center, Says Church

THIS is the second of a series of articles by outstanding citizens of this city on the past and present achievements and the future possibilities of Pittsburgh.

By SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH,
President of the Carnegie Institute.

I BELIEVE it would be entirely fair to attribute Pittsburgh's lively and intelligent appreciation of art to the work that has been done here by the Carnegie Institute and its associated enterprise, the Carnegie Institute of Technology. On the night when Mr Carnegie dedicated the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, November 5, 1895, he gave his trustees $1,000,000 to start the two new Departments of Museum and Fine Arts, and under his constant patronage the whole institution developed so rapidly that it soon became necessary to reconstruct the original edifice, and the present Carnegie Institute building, housing the Central Library, Library School, Music Hall, Fine Arts and Museum Departments, was dedicated on April 11, 12 and 13, 1907. And by this time Carnegie Tech had become well organized, and was making giant strides in education.

SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH

Notable Exhibits

The first exhibition of painting consisted of a loan collection at the Carnegie Institute which comprised works by many of the greatest of the Old Masters, and this was the most important showing of art that Pittsburgh had seen up to that time. After that the International Exhibition of Paintings was held each year, with the exception of two years during the World War, and Mr. Carnegie set, such a high educational value upon these annual shows that when we told him that the work of reconstructing the building would interrupt the annual painting exhibitions, he made possible the erection of a temporary art gallery building, which stood in Schenley Park for three years and cost $300,000, simply as an emergency gallery. After the main building was dedicated, that temporary gallery was demolished and the materials were taken down town to the old Webster avenue reservoir and again set up in that location, where it stands today as a playground house.

Aim for the Best

IT HAS been the aim of the Carnegie Institute to show each year the most recent work of the painters who are acknowledged in their own countries to be masters of art. This rule makes it impossible for the Institute, even if its trustees were so disposed, to declare a preference for any one style of painting. The aim is to show each year's production of the world's best painters, and whether those painters choose to work in the conservative, modern, or advanced styles, the Institute is bound to show their pictures in order that the people of Pittsburgh, and after them the people of the country at large, may keep abreast of the art tendencies of each year. If those tendencies are bad, public criticism and neglect will kill them; if they are good, the works will meet the triumph of success.

Art Appreciated

When these exhibitions began, about 32 years ago, it is safe to say that there were very few persons in Pittsburgh who had any intelligent understanding of those principles of composition comprising line, color, tone, light, shade, and plane which are the primary elements employed in the production of every painting. But as years passed the frequency with which our citizens visited the Institute and the keen and sometimes excited discussions which followed upon the display of these pictures awakened an interest which naturally developed a more or less firm technical knowledge on the part of the general public, so that the people of Pitsburgh today understand the qualities of good painting—without regard to whether the style is ancient, modern, or futuristic—as well as any other community in the world.

For School Children

ANOTHER fact of high educational value is the arrangement existing between the trustees and the public and parochial schools of Pittsburgh whereby every child in the eighth, or high-school, grade is required to come to the Carnegie Institute three times a year for instruction in subjects pertaining to art and natural history. These young students are always the most

HIGHER TAXES CITED AS CERTAIN

Opposition to the pending Greater Pittsburgh charter is forecast in the attitude of city and county officials who will appear in Harrisburg next Tuesday at a hearing before the Legislature.

Borough and township officials of the Thirteenth Legislative District, comprising the northern part of the county, will meet Saturday afternoon in the courthouse to discuss the charter plan. Representative Lewis W. Hagmaier has called this meeting, at which it is predicted much criticism of the present plan may develop.

The principal objection is based on the higher taxes that will be imperative under the new charter, with estimates of the increase ranging from 20 to 33 1-3 per cent above the present levies.

DISCUSSED AT MEETING

The pending bill was discussed extensively last Saturday at a meeting called by Senator M. G. Leslie in his Pittsburgh office. Leslie presented the measure to the Senate last Monday.

The discussion was guided by a written legal analysis of the bill in which unfavorable criticism dominated.

Attorneys attending the Leslie conference were District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner; City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, and his first assistant, Thomas M. Benner; County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich and his assistant, M. B. Lesher. No announcement was made of the author of the legal analysis.

The analysis recommends postponing action on the pending charter until 1931 as "there are many defects in the bill which should cause everyone to pause."

Certain sections of the pending charter are clearly unconstitutional, the analysis stated. Other objections included the proposal to establish a new county court system by ripping out aldermen, justices of the peace and constables; the obvious overlapping of governmental functions; glaring omissions in the creation of the department of personnel, which would abolish the civil service commission, and the despotic power placed in the hands of the proposed safety department.

The principal section raising doubts as to constitutionality refers to the operation of passenger, freight and express traffic and confers upon the consolidated city the same powers with respect to transit and facilities as are now possessed by the present city of Pittsburgh. That is termed legislation by reference and is prohibited in the constitution of the state.

Regarding overlapping, the analysis points out that there is a failure in many instances to sharply define the line of demarcation between the powers of the consolidated city and those of local municipalities.

FIRE MARSHAL ORDERS COUNTY SCHOOL RAZED

The lives of 150 school children are endangered in the weakened, dangerous McGibney schoolhouse in Churchview avenue, Baldwin Township, Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr said today.

Part of the schoolhouse's foundation has crumbled and the building, a two-story frame structure, is a reminder of the leaning Tower of Pisa, Pfarr reported.

Mothers of the school children complained to County School Superintendent Charles Dickey, who requested Pfarr to examine the building.

Today Pfarr ordered that the entire building be demolished. Two of the four schoolrooms already have been abandoned. Plans to remove the pupils to a temporary building are under way. The first floor of the building was erected in 1883. Five years later the second floor was added.

Keener and Deputy Marshal Edward Caskey, but his objections were overruled by Judge George Starn.

The officers followed Mr. and Mrs. Ray Horst, parents of little Melvin, on the witness stand this morning. The parents told of the child's failure to return home on the evening of December 27 and the subsequent search so far has remained fruitless.

In the Horst home at Orrville the Christmas tree adorned in all its holiday splendor stands as mute testimony. The corner of the little living room where the tree stands has been held sacred by the grieving mother who still entertains hope for her child's safety.

Arthur Arnold

"I know he will be given back to me," she declares simply. "I feel certain that no harm has come to him and when God wills I shall hold him in my arms again."

The trial began yesterday.

In his statement to the court, Attorney D. Metz, chief counsel for the defense, declared he would produce witnesses who saw the boy alive almost an hour after the state contends he was lured into the Arnold home.

Special Assistant County Prosecutor Walter Mougey, who is handling the commonwealth's case, declared he would prove that the child was taken into the Arnold home and later removed in an automobile.

GIRL PRAISES POLICE WHO SAVED LIFE

"I want to give you my impression of the Pittsburgh police force," writes Alyce E. Rogers, 18, 506 Delmont avenue, in a letter made public by Safety Director James M. Clark.

Miss Rogers then proceeds to tell the Director that Pittsburgh's force in general is good and that Lieut. J. L. McDonough and Patrolmen Frank Welsh, Larry Deszcz and Thomas Grogan in particular are the finest in the land.

"I owe my life to them," Alyce writes. "Mother and daddy want to add their thanks and praise to mine."

Alyce was found near death from carbon monoxide fumes in her home on February 7. Summoned by neighbors, the four policemen arrived in seven minutes from Mt. Washington station, three miles distant. They brought a pulmotor with them and for four hours worked over the unconscious girl. At last they succeeded in reviving her. She will get well, the doctors tell her, if she does not run too many risks and develop pneumonia.

name's John A. Forney. It happens that the lawyer Mandell also is a member of that club, so when Mandell had the certificate attested there by the notary public it was just a coincidence."

SEARCH HERE FAILS

The search for Forney in Pittsburgh was no more successful than McGinley's Broadway pilgrimage. Forney's lawyer, Miram D. Hirsh, told of the continued failure to locate his missing client.

"I've called Mrs. Forney each day and she hasn't heard from him either," Hirsh offered.

CAN'T ARREST FORNEY

The county detective is in New York to check up on the doctor who is said to have certified to Forney's illness and to show the alleged slot machine concessionaire if he finds him—that it will be better if he returns, Gardner said. He has no authority to arrest Forney.

"Forney is not a fugitive from justice," Gardner said. "There is no warrant out for him and he cannot be arrested. His case has been continued until Monday by Judge James B. Drew. If he fails to appear then his bond will probably be forfeited. We will see then what steps can be taken to force his return to the jurisdiction of local courts."

Will Draw Power From Tropical Seas

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—Georges Claude, inventor of the Neon tube now widely used in advertising signs, and a member of the French Academy of Sciences, declared today he could produce power from tropical seas without fuel. The device has been successfully demonstrated in France and will be further perfected here, Claude said.

WANT LINDY AS U. S. AIR CHIEF

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh can be assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, by merely indicating he will take the job, it was learned today.

Lindbergh already is a technical advisor to Secretary of Commerce Lamont. In this capacity the flying colonel will help the department and the Bureau of Standards in working out technical problems of aeronautical development. He will do only special work.

While there seemed little probability that Lindbergh would become air secretary, aeronautical experts said that should he accept the post it would mean a tremendous boost for all phases of commercial aviation.

William P. MacCracken, Jr., present air secretary, is expected to retire soon to enter private business. The hope was expressed that possibly Lindbergh might consent to take the post for a year.

MEXICO CITY, March 13.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was believed today to be awaiting arrival of a plane en route from the United States to make his departure from this city.

R. L. Doble, air mail pilot, flew Lindbergh's plane from Wichita, Kan., to Brownsville, Tex., yesterday. He was to fly here today.

Revised Motor Code To Come Up Monday

HARRISBURG, March 13.—The administration's revised motor code will come up in the House next Monday night for final consideration. It came again from the roads committee today. Elimination of the section removing the present 35 miles an hour speed limit will be made in the Senate. Instead the limit will be increased to 40 miles an hour.

The bill, as introduced, increases the drivers' license fees to $2 and also jumps the registration fees on trucks and buses.

BEAVER, Pa., March 13.—A reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who bombed the home of William Davidson, chief of police of Beaver Falls, early Friday morning, was offered by the county commissioners yesterday. An additional reward will be offered by the Police Protective Association.

RE REVOLT END IN MEXICO

Heavy rebel losses were reported the government today as powerful federal and insurgent forces continued to converge on Torreon, where the next few days may witness either one of the biggest battles in the history of Mexican revolutions or a speedy disintegration of the entire revolutionary movement.

An army of 22,000 rebels was reported massing at Torreon, while Calles, commander-in-chief of federals, was proceeding northward with 18,000 men and Almazan was advancing from the East to descend on the rebel stronghold.

Government successes were reported at widely scattered points. Along the border, in the heart of the rebel country of Sonora, a serious defection of Yaqui and Mayo Indian troops hit the insurgents heavily.

Jesus Olachea, hitherto apparently supporting the rebels, staged a coup yesterday, and today was strongly entrenched at Naco, which he took over in the name of the government.

Rebel reverses in the East and South also were reported.

Almazan, the insurgents evacuated Saltillo after looting two banks of about $60,000. The federals were hard at work repairing serious railroad damage caused by the withdrawing insurgents.

DAWES RUMORED AS NEXT AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP.)—Although he has returned to Chicago, the question of what former Vice President Charles Gates Dawes will do next remains a subject of lively speculation in the capital.

It is known that he plans to go to San Domingo soon to help organize the fiscal affairs of that nation.

It is also known that he has been making plans to go to Europe this summer. When that was first mentioned, the inference was that his European trip would be a personal affair. Now, however, there is gaining credence that he will not go as a private citizen, but as America's new ambassador to Great Britain.

Alanson B. Houghton, the present ambassador, it is assumed, is preparing to retire. President Hoover is maintaining his position that he will make no diplomatic appointments pending the arrival of the new Secretary of State, Henry Stimson, but he is known to have a very high regard for the former vice President's abilities.

The latest regard was formulated first during and immediately after the war, when Mr. Hoover was engaged in relief work and Mr. Dawes was a general in the American Expeditionary Forces. At that time, it is recalled, he sought the assistance of Dawes.

While aspects of Dawes' colorful and varied career may not jibe with the common conception of diplomacy, friends here point out there are others which in their opinion would make his appointment to the highest post in the foreign service entirely logical. His fitness for such an undertaking, they hold, was amply demonstrated in his handling of the difficult problem of German reparations which produced the plan of settlement that bears his name.

Some usually well-informed individuals here are prepared to be surprised if Dawes doesn't return to the government service at the court of St. James.

To London?

CHARLES G. DAWES

Rumors are that the retired vice president will succeed Alanson B. Houghton as ambassador to Great Britain.

FREED IN ONE, MAN GUILTY IN ANOTHER FAMILY FIGHT

Three juries in Criminal Court today labored to untangle the domestic litigation of Michael Berardino.

One jury acquitted him on a charge of aggravated assault and battery on his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rose Cancelliere, 72, in her home, 6271 Stanton avenue, but decreed that he must pay the costs.

Another jury shortly afterward brought in a verdict of guilty of attempted assault for driving his automobile into another driven by his brother-in-law, John Cancelliere, in which Mrs. Barardino and Louis Fanelli were passengers.

A third jury then was drawn to try him on a charge of assault and battery preferred by his wife.

In addition Berardino yesterday filed an appeal to the Superior Court from an order of the desertion and nonsupport court directing him to pay his wife $5,000 cash and $300 a month.

Watch tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph for more information of interest to savings bank depositors.

Thrift continues to bring reward to Pittsburgh savings bank depositors.

One of the most appreciative recipients of the checks deposited by the Sun-Telegraph to the credit of thrifty folk is Mrs. Margaret Adams, of 429 Pearl street, who has received a $10 gift as the holder of bank book No. 10,614 of the Bloomfield Trust Company. Mrs. Adams has three children to support. Her husband is an invalid. Accordingly, the Sun-Telegraph's contribution, one of more than 100 made to bank depositors throughout the city and suburbs, was very welcome.

If you have a savings account, your bank book may be among those to the credit of which Sun-Telegraph thrift gifts will be deposited. Watch the paper for the numbers of the bank books of thrifty folk who are to be rewarded. The gifts so far made have ranged from $50 to $5. A few of them have not been claimed as yet. The checks must be called for within a week after the contributions are announced.

CROWDS SIGN PETITIONS IN STORES

Hundreds of petitions to Congress seeking a revision downward of the tax on earned incomes are in daily circulation in Pittsburgh. While great throngs are signing the petitions in stores, hotels, cigar stands and in office buildings, the proportion of individual signers is increasing every hour.

The individual petitioners are clipping the blank forms from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and obtaining the co-operation of their friends, and are mailing these to the Sun-Telegraph office, where they are filed for submission to Congress. The enormous return of individual petitions is regarded as one of the truest signs of the overwhelming sentiment in favor of a reduction in the tax.

While many professional men and wage earners have modestly refrained from urging their cause because they are interested parties in the matter of asking a reduction of taxes on earned incomes, their contention has been taken up by bankers, capitalists, tax counselors and others who have been quick to realize the unfairness of placing a burden upon the shoulders of those who work for their living.

CUMMING PRAISES PLAN

A voluntary letter from J. M. Cumming, head of the firm of Cumming & Co., certified public accountants and tax counselors of Pittsburgh and Washington, addressed to William Randolph Hearst, praises the efforts of the Hearst papers to obtain a reduction on the tax on earned incomes.

"Your advocacy in the Sun-Telegraph of reduction in income tax on earned incomes has won the hearty approval of every attorney, accountant and members of other professions," Mr. Cumming wrote. Pointing out the cause of the unfair income levy, he said:

"It is an unfortunate commentary on our present complex system of government that few congressmen know anything of the practical application of our revenue laws and the majority apparently care less about the injustices committed under the guise of taxation."

MANY SIGN PETITIONS

There was a rush yesterday to sign petitions placed in the stores, hotels, cigar stands and other public places. Blank petition forms were exhausted and a new supply was sent for. In the Clark Building store of the Dow Drug Company, Liberty avenue and Seventh street, C. C. King, the manager, reported more than a score of signatures during the first 15 minutes the petitions were on the counters.

S. L. Benedito.

Sidney L. Benedito, manager of the Hotel Schenley, declared that guests in his hotel as well as in the apartments adjoining had asked for petitions in order to register their protest to the tax on earned incomes.

"I am anxious to accommodate my patrons and at the same time want to declare my own views," said Mr. Benedito. "The tax on professional people, salaried men and women and wage earners is unjust and stupid. The uprising against it will open the eyes of Congress and our assessment next year should be on a fair basis."

MERCHANTS SIGN UP

Individual petitions came in big batches yesterday. Many downtown office buildings sent petitions representing the personnel of offices throughout entire floors of buildings. Every merchant in the town of Millsboro, Pa., signed up, and nearly a score of dentists in the McKeesport district put their names on a petition.

The Allegheny County Medical Society thus far has taken no action in the movement as an organization, but many physicians individually are sending in petitions. Mechanics and garage men also represent a large number of individual petitioners.

2 Shot As Chicken Thieves, One Killed

GREENUP, Ky., March 13.—(AP.)—One man was shot and killed and another was wounded seriously near here while, police were told, they were attempting to steal chickens from John Beverly. Beverly was freed under $2,000 bond yesterday pending a hearing. Beverly told the police he had been missing chickens and was standing guard. He said the two men, Bee McGuire, 28, and Warren Wilburn, 26, were in the chicken pen when he shot them. McGuire was killed.

Plot to Rid Kaiser's Sister of Mate Seen

BONN, Prussia, March 13.—(AP.)—The bankruptcy proceedings instituted here yesterday against Princess Victoria, sister of the former kaiser, were seen in some quarters as a ruse to rid the princess of her young Russian husband, Alexander Subkoff, who is 34 years her junior. The family of the princess never approved of her marriage and the escapades of her young husband and his emigre friends were believed to have cost her a considerable part of fortune.

THE NOON HOUR RUSH OF YOUNG WOMEN SEEKING TO SIGN PETITIONS TO LOWER INCOME TAX

Interest among young women workers in the movement to reduce the tax on earned incomes is shown in this throng, part of which is shown in the photograph, lined up in the Clark building store of Dow Drug Company to sign a petition. KING IMPROVES, REGENCY OFF

BOGNOR, England, March 13.—(AP.)—So much improvement has the condition of King George shown that it is now believed no attempt will be made to seek appointment of a regent to act during the remainder of his illness.

It is believed that his majesty will be well enough by the time Parliament must be dissolved to deal personally with all matters connected with the dissolution of the government, the general elections to be held in May and formation of the new cabinet.

The present view in authoritative circles is that unless something unforeseen happens a bill creating a regent, probably the Prince of Wales, will not be introduced in Parliament. This bill appeared quite probably a few days ago, but King George has exceeded expectations in his progress towards recovery.

His majesty was wheeled again about the grounds of Craigwell House yesterday for an hour. He chatted and smoked, thoruoghly enjoying his outing. He was accompanied by Queen Mary and Sir Stanley Hewitt, his physician.

BILL ENLISTS STATE'S AID IN FIGHT ON EARNINGS TAX

Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 13.—Congress is urged to reduce the income tax burden on wage earners in a resolution presented in the House today by Representative M. A. Musmanno. The resolution reads:

"Whereas, the present federal income tax law in its make-up and operation imposes a severe burden on the average wage earner throughout the entire country:

BIG EXPENSE CITED

"Whereas, while provisions are made for deduction for amortization, depreciation and the allowance for depletion on the basis of discovery value in the cost of mines and oil wells, no provision is made for the gradual depletion of the physical resources of the average wage earner;

"Whereas, under the present schedule of rates the federal government is placed under an enormous expense in collecting the tax from the vast number of citizens earning, but a meager and modest wage;

CONGRESS PETITIONED

"Whereas, President Hoover has issued a proclamation calling into extraordinary session the seventy-first Congress of the United States;

"Therefore, be it resolved (if the Senate concur) that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through the medium of this resolution, go on record as recommending that the seventy-first Congress take up the question of a revision of the present income tax law to the end that the excessive burdens of the wage earner of the United States be ameliorated."

Explaining his action, Musmanno said:

STATE LEAD URGED

"The movement to persuade and induce Congress to revise the present income tax law so that it may not bear down so burdensomely on the average wage earner and professional man has acquired a momentum which should be recognized by the State Legislature. While the problem is one exclusively within the jurisdiction of the federal legislature, nevertheless the State Assembly is in admirable position of centralization to point out the intent and wish of the citizenry of the commonwealth.

"If every State Legislature were to do the same, there could be no doubt about the Congressional result. Let Pennsylvania be the first."

Hon. W. R. Hearst,

Dear Sir:-

Your advocacy in the Sun-Telegraph of reduction in income tax on earned incomes has won the hearty approval of every attorney, accountant and members of other professions.

It is an unfortunate commentary on our present complex system of government that few Congressmen know anything of the practical application of our revenue laws and the majority apparently care less about the injustices committed under the guise of taxation.

Arousing public interest and opinion on this subject, as you have done, should bring to our honored lawmakers a realization of their responsibility in the matter. If this can be accomplished, you will have rendered a great public service.

Respectfully yours,

AIRWAYS BILLS CONSIDERED

HARRISBURG, March 13.—The Howe resolution providing a $15,000,000 for the construction of airports and landing fields in the mountains of Pennsylvania was reported affirmatively from the constitutional reform committee today.

The House today received from the aeronautics committee the three bills of Representative Turner, Delaware, to govern flying in Pennsylvania. Control over private and municipal airports in the state is given to the commission under the bills. The commission is made administration instead of advisory, as at present.

The bills also make operators of planes liable for damage to property caused by airplane landings. Increased authority for municipalities in acquiring airports and landing fields is given by the bills.

Reconciliation Fails, Husband Cuts Throat

Mrs. Whiffen, 84, Recalls First Stage Fright

ROANOKE, Va., March 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Blanche Whiffen, the "Grand Old Lady of the Stage," celebrated her eighty-fourth birthday yesterday at her farm near Contvale, 16 miles east of Roanoke.

She still recalls the stage fright which she experienced when, as a girl of 17, she made her first appearance in London. She subsequently played nearly 400 roles in the 60 years of her stage career.

After establishing her reputation in London and Paris, she came to the United States in 1868 and toured the country in "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Hazel Kirk," "The Rajah," "May Blossom," "The Private Secretary" and other celebrated productions.

WAR OFFICE POST LOST TO MORIN

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Friends of former Representative John M. Morin, of Pittsburgh, have lost their fight to have him named assistant secretary of war in the Hoover administration. Passing over the indorsements of members of the Pennsylvania Congressional delegation, including Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, President Hoover has tendered the post to Patrick J. Hurley, of Tulsa, Okla., who was actively identified with the Hoover campaign in the southwestern section.

Morin was strongly put forward for the post because of his close association with War Department problems as chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee for a number of years. Practically all legislation affecting the department is handled in the House by the military affairs body.

BURKE ALSO MENTIONED

Morin, who did not run for reelection last year, was regarded as especially qualified for the under cabinet position.

Another Pittsburgher, James Francis Burke, general counsel for the Republican National Committee, was mentioned for the assistant secretaryship also, but it was never made clear that he was in an acceptable frame of mind.

Pennsylvania leaders here today were of the opinion that the President will yet provide some high place for Morin.

The part played by the South in the election of Hoover was accorded further recognition in the appointment of Ernest Lee Jahncke, of New Orleans, as assistant secretary of the navy.

N. Y. GANG DEATH LIST MOUNTS

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—The revelation that another New Yorker was murdered in Palm Beach just 12 days before "Fatty" Walsh, bodyguard to the late Arnold Rothstein, was shot down at Coral Gables, added a deeper mystery today to the internal feud which seems to prevail in the ranks of Broadway's army of racketeers and gunmen.

A rain of machine gun bullets snuffed out the life of Thomas Foley, 39, who is said to be a habitue of that western fringe of the white light district known as "Broadway's Backyard."

A wall of secrecy surrounds Foley's murder.

It appears he was shot down March 1 on a lonely road just out of Palm Beach, but the police were unaware of his death until today when it was learned that his body was brought back here quietly for burial Monday.

Meanwhile, Demaris Dore, night club hostess, who named Ed Wilson, gambler, as the slayer of Walsh, still was under police surveillance.

Fears for the girl's life were expressed in the White Light belt today because of the open manner in which she is said to have revealed gangland's secrets to the police.

PITTSBURGH WORLD ART CENTER, CHURCH DECLARES

CITY'S MATERIAL WEALTH PROMOTES CULTURE HERE

precious of all our visitors, and as they come thronging each day in groups ranging from 100 to 200 they are met at the entrance by curators trained to educational methods, who on the first visit explain in simple language the examples of architecture and sculpture from the most ancient times to our own day; on the second visit the rules that govern good painting; and on the third visit their wondering eyes behold many objects which illustrate natural history and the commonplace things of the scientific world.

Under this policy the younger generation is constantly absorbing an understanding of art and science as demonstrated in the Institute's exhibits which is a source of strength in their preparation for later life. In this way, both for young and for old, the Carnegie Institute is a torch of light and a powerhouse of culture.

Leads the World

PITTSBURGH is the only city in the world that has an international exhibition of paintings, and in recent years she has been doing missionary work by arranging at the completion of each International to send the paintings on tour to other cities, and thus far these pictures, truly accredited to the Carnegie Institute, have been shown in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Washington, Buffalo, Rochester, Cleveland, Toledo, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Ann Arbor, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Omaha, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The expansion of the arts in general in Pittsburgh has had a tremendous impetus through the work of the School of Fine Arts at Tech, where they teach achitecture, painting, sculpture, music and drama, and hundreds of the students in these courses have later won success in their professional work.

Rare Collections Here

THEN there are many private studios in the city, like the one conducted by Christ Walter, who is president of the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh, and who has trained many capable painters.

The art lovers of Pittsburgh are numerous. Sir Joseph Duveen told me the other day that Andrew W. Mellon has the best collection of paintings in America. The A. M. Byers collection, while not well known to the public, is rich, varied, and representative. Richard B. Mellon has many fine paintings, as has also Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr.

Famous Musicians

THE Henry Buhl, Jr., collection, containing some beautiful pictures, came to the Carnegie Institute by will a few months ago, and just a few days ago the Institute received the interesting and valuable bequest of the pictures belonging to Mrs. J. Willis Dalzell, which will soon be placed on exhibition.

Then Pittsburgh has its Symphony Orchestra, giving those beautiful Sunday night concerts which seem to furnish a benediction to the other features of Sunday in the splendid music of the great composers. We have our own illustrious composers, the most distinguished being Stephen C. Foster, Ethelbert Nevin and Charles Wakefield Cadman, who have created compositions which are looked upon almost as divine harmonies throughout the world.

Lead in Literature

IN literature Pittsburgh has many names of high reputation. The first local book that I can find is Hugh Henry Brackenridge's "Whisky Insurrection of 1794." Then come a long list of authors, from whom I name at random Neville B. Craig, Sarah H. Killikelly, Robert P. Nevin, Bartley Campbell, Richard Realf, Henry C. McCook, Charles McKnight, John Reed Scott, and those three brilliant stars in the firmament of fiction — Margaretta Wade Deland, Willa Sibert Cather, and Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Pittsburgh is thus equally notable in the material and the spiritual realms of achievment, and it is to her honor and glory that her material wealth has been used from the beginning to promote those spiritual ends which give to human life all its charm, beauty and happiness. These considerations make Pittsburgh an ideal place for bringing up children, and all our young men and young women who aspire to that measure of knowledge which marks the intellectual life can reach the goal of their ambition by availing themselves of the advantages which lie abundantly at the door.

GRUNDY HOLDS HALF-HOUR TARIFF TILT WITH HOOVER

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Political Washington was speculating today over what took place at a conference Tuesday between President Hoover and Joseph R. Grundy, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association.

Grundy called at the White House late yesterday and spent 30 minutes with the chief executive, presumably for the purpose of discussing the new tariff bill to be considered at the forthcoming special session of Congress. In leaving, however, he declined to comment on the nature of his call.

Grundy and the President are known to be at odds over the extent of tariff revision to be undertaken in the new legislation. Mr. Hoover has let it be known that he is in favor of having the measure restricted as much as possible. On the other hand the Pennsylvania association head has urged a general upward revision all down the line, with all industries given increased protection.

News for Mothers!

Health element of sunshine that children need now added to a hot breakfast food.

SUNSHINE is nature's greatest tonic! For years the world has known it. But only recently have doctors learned why sunshine is so beneficial. And now, Professor Harry Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin, noted scientist, has gone further. He adds the bone building factor of sunshine to Quaker Farina, famous breakfast food, by "irradiation" with Ultra-Violet Light!

Vitamin "D" is the name scientists give to this bone-building element of sunshine. Vitamin "D" enables the body to make good use of the lime in foods. Bones and teeth are built of lime. The child who has plenty of Vitamin "D" has normal bone development. Legs are straight and strong. Teeth sound and hard. Appetite is good.

Lacking this magic "sun" vitamin, the child's bone development is often faulty. Bow legs, poor teeth, are common symptoms. The child has poor appetite; is "always catching cold." 90% of city children suffer from sunlight starvation, say authorities. Gray skies, heavy winter clothing, explain why.

So the search has been for new easy ways of providing more "sunshine." Now comes this new discovery. It is irradiation of Quaker Farina by Ultra Violet Light under the Steenbock Process. Irradiated Quaker Farina contains and can pass on to you the precious Vitamin "D."

Think what this means to children! Their breakfast dish of this famous creamy white heart-of-the-wheat cereal now aids them in a new way no other hot breakfast food can claim to do! Wouldn't you rather have Quaker Farina since this is so? Your grocer can supply you. The irradiated kind looks and tastes the same. And the price is unchanged! NOTE: All Quaker Farina now on grocers' shelves is irradiated even though no mention of it is on the package.

1 CONVICT IN 3 LINKED WITH DRUGS

WASHINGTON, March 13.—One out of every three convicts in America today either is a drug addict or a violator of anti-narcotic laws.

This is by far the largest class of prisoners in federal and state institutions.

The annual crime toll caused by criminals addicted to dope is estimated between $3,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000.

Because of this admittedly deplorable situation, federal enforcement officials are looking eagerly to President Hoover's law enforcement commission for legislative recommendations to check the growing menace of drug addiction, especially among the dangerous criminal elements.

INCREASE ALARMING

The alarming increase in the use of habit-forming drugs during the last decade is shown graphically in the cold statistics of the number of convict addicts.

In 1917 there were but 133 addicts in the three federal prisons, Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil Island. In five years the figure increased threefold.

By 1924 there were 1,201 addicts, and the total of prisoners sentenced for violations of the drug laws jumped to 2,129.

Last year the number of addicts totaled 1,559, and 31 per cent of the total prison population were under sentence for violation of the narcotic laws. Of the latter group, 67 per cent were addicts.

Today the number of federal prison addicts is estimated at approximately 1,700.

MILLION DOPE USERS

Based on the percentage of addicts in correctional institutions, the number of dope users generally throughout the country would be roughly 400,000. Competent authorities estimate this figure as extremely conservative, as reliable estimates have ranged as high as 1,000,000 and more.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, in a recent report on drug addiction in prisons, declared:

"The demoralizing influence of these men (addicts) upon the remainder of the 7,000 prisoners can be imagined and the need for a remedy speaks in thunder tones to the minds and consciences of those who have the legislative power to remedy and relieve this terrible condition.

"The victims of narcotics are a social menace for they not only try but succeed in spreading the disease or habit by getting others under their influence, and when they are themselves without the drugs or the means to procure them from the persons who pander to the wants of these addicts by peddling the drugs within their reach (persons who seem to be devoid of all moral rectitude), then we find that the addict becomes much more dangerous, and will stop at nothing, no matter how indefensible and criminal, to secure the means to gratify his appetite.

"The increase in crime in its most dangerous character is frequently traced to an addict who becomes the author and the perpetrator of crimes of violence."

NOBILE 'VINDICATED' BY MALMGREN

INSISTS SCIENTIFIC AIMS OF TRIP WERE FULFILLED

In a series of four exclusive articles written for the Hearst newspapers, of which this is the last, Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated dirigible, Italia, tells for the first time his own dramatic story of the Italia disaster and the scientific achievements of the expedition as he sees them.

A board of inquiry in Italy recently completed its trial of Gen. Nobile and adjudged him responsible for the loss of the Italia and part of her crew in the Arctic. During the trial none of the testimony for or against him was made public. In effect these articles constitute Nobile's defense.

In the first two articles Gen. Nobile told of the disaster itself. In the third and in the accompanying article he deals largely with the scientific phases of the expedition.

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE,

Commander of the Ill-Fated North Pole Expedition of the Italian Dirigible Italia.

(Copyright, 1929, in North and South America, by New York American, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction, either in whole or in part, prohibited. Copyright, 1929, in all other countries by Umberto Nobile.)

ROME, March 13.—It is not my intention to repeat here the vicissitudes of the third flight which ended so tragically. I only wish to give clear proof that—except for the scheduled descent on the ice at the Pole, which was rendered impossible by the terrible weather encountered—the entire program of geographical and scientific research was accomplished.

We passed over 750 kilometers (one kilometer is .621 of a mile—nearly two-thirds) from Kings Bay to Cape Bridgman, on the coast, north of Greenland; 700 kilometers from Cape Bridgman to the North Pole; 100 kilometers around the Pole, and then 1,100 kilometers from the Pole to the point where we fell.

The geographical co-ordinates of this point are: 81° 15' north latitude and 25° 20' longitude east of Greenwich. That is about 95 kilometers north of Cape Brun on the north coast of the land northeast of Spitzbergen.

In total we cruised 2,650 kilometers, without taking into account the inevitable deviation of route. Of these 2,650 kilometers, 1,250 were flown over unexplored regions.

On the whole, taking into account the conditions of visibility such as we had in various parts of the flight, it may be said that 73,000 square kilometers were explored.

Much Data Saved

The program of scientific measurements was accomplished.

Malmgren executed a series of meteorological observations and studies on the state of the ice. A great part of his records were saved.

The radio data, collected by Behounek, has been all saved.

Unfortunately, the observations lost are those on the state of the ice, which I had noted in a book that remained on the dirigible after the fall.

And up to today we have not yet had any news of the magnetic and wireless measurements executed by Pontremoli.

If the scientific preparations were accurate, not less care was given to the technical part of the flight.

The instruments for navigation, the motors, fire extinguishers, life-saving apparatus, equipment for verifying and repairing damage to the airship, duplicate pieces for the motors, food supplies and reserves, utensils and materials needed in case the expedition had to descend on the ice—all were selected with meticulous care.

In order to increase the carrying capacity to accommodate the gasoline necessary for the final flight, the crew had to be reduced to the minimum. I decided there should be no more than 15 persons aboard, and it was only at the last moment—when I was giving the order to start—that I decided to allow the sixteenth to mount. He was Viglieri.

Of these sixteen persons, seven had previously taken part in the expedition of the Norge. I added three Naval officers, a wireless operator, an engineer, two scientists (pontremoli and Behounek,) a pilot, who was Ciocca, and a journalist, Lago.

To the meticulous technical preparation of the expedition we owe the fact that after the fall we had at our disposal the wireless station by means of which we were able to get into communication with the world.

2 Trips Compared

It is worth while to compare the geographical results of the expedition of the Italia and that of the Norge.

In the voyage of the Norge (Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile transpolar flight) about 5,000 kilometers of polar regions were flown over from King's Bay to Teller. About 1,700 kilometers of these were over unexplored zones.

But the exploration was incomplete and uncertain because nearly always we were obliged to fly above the fog, which was about a thousand meters high.

So that while we of the Italia can conclude legitimately that between the Pole and Alaska no continent exists, as was forseen, nevertheless it cannot be said definitely that along the route traversed by the Norge there are or are not islands, because the fog made determination impossible.

In the three Arctic flights of the Italia 7,500 kilometers were flown over the Arctic regions. That is 2,400 more than the total flown over by the Norge.

Of these 7,500 kilometers, about 2,600 were traversed over unknown regions.

With the Italia, therefore, we explored 900 kilometers more in distance than with the Norge, with the advantage that we never lost sight—except for very brief tracts—of the surface below us, so that the exploration, within the limits of visibility, was effective and complete.

We can well say, with absolute certainty, that in the above mentioned strip of 900 kilometers land does not exist. A total of 120,000 square kilometers of land was really explored.

With the flight of the Norge we were enabled to conclude that the supposed Harris Land did not exist.

With the flight of the Italia we have seen that Gillis Land does not exist, and have been able to draw a line of demarcation of the extreme western limits to which Nicholas II Land could be extended.

It is not possible to make a comparison between the expedition of the Italia and that of the Norge on scientific grounds, because the expedition of the Norge was not at all arranged for scientific work, while to the preparation of the scientific program of the Italia were dedicated long months of effort, with the collaboration and advice of eminent Italian and foreign scientists.

Malmgren Convinced

We have every right to affirm that the expedition of the Italia has been the first aerial Arctic expedition which has fulfilled an important scientific work.

In this regard I wish to mention here that when I asked Malmgren if he would consent to take part in the expedition, the reply of that illustrous Swedish scientist was simple and prompt:

"I will come most willingly, if there is really scientific work to accomplish."

I met Dr. Malmgren when I went to Berlin to examine with some German scientists certain particulars of our program of scientific research. I told him of our program and the preparations so far made. Malmgren at once said he would come with us.

This decision was of essential importance, because it showed how much the Swedish scientist was convinced of the seriousness of our scientific program.

He expressed the conviction that never had an expedition been prepared with such care as that of the Italia.

The decision of Malmgren, the companion in the Norge, with whom I had shared the anxieties and perils of the 180 hours of flight from Rome to Teller, is a tacit denial of all the small calumnies launched against me, after the success of that memorable undertaking.

The participation of Malmgren in the enterprise of the Italia, after the experience of the Norge, signified then full confidence in the scientific program of the expedition, and full confidence in the men and means chosen to actuate it.

I learned to love and admire the young Swedish scientist during the preparations for our flight, and during the 420 hours of flying together on both the Norge and the Italia. His conduct during the terrible hours that followed the catastrophe showed the nobility of his spirit.

His generous words to Behounek about me in those terrible days when there was so little hope that we would ever return to civilization for all the unkind things said against me as head of the expedition by men who judged the catastrophe from amid the comforts and amusements of the city.

Memory of Tears

The death of Malmgren has been a serious loss to science, especially to the science of the polar regions, but a still more serious loss to the expedition, which lost in him one of its best defenders.

But Malmgren, even though dead, vindicates the importance and the moral greatness of our undertaking. His declarations before leaving Europe and his words on the pack—together with the scientific and geographical results of the expedition—constitute the best reply to men who have laughed at the Italian flag and the cross we religiously deposited at the Pole.

Our eyes in that solemn moment were dimmed with tears. We are not ashamed of them.

The remembrance of those tears and of the generous emotion which had provoked them is today part of that treasure of memories, sensations and emotions of which no base envy, no human malignity can ever deprive us.

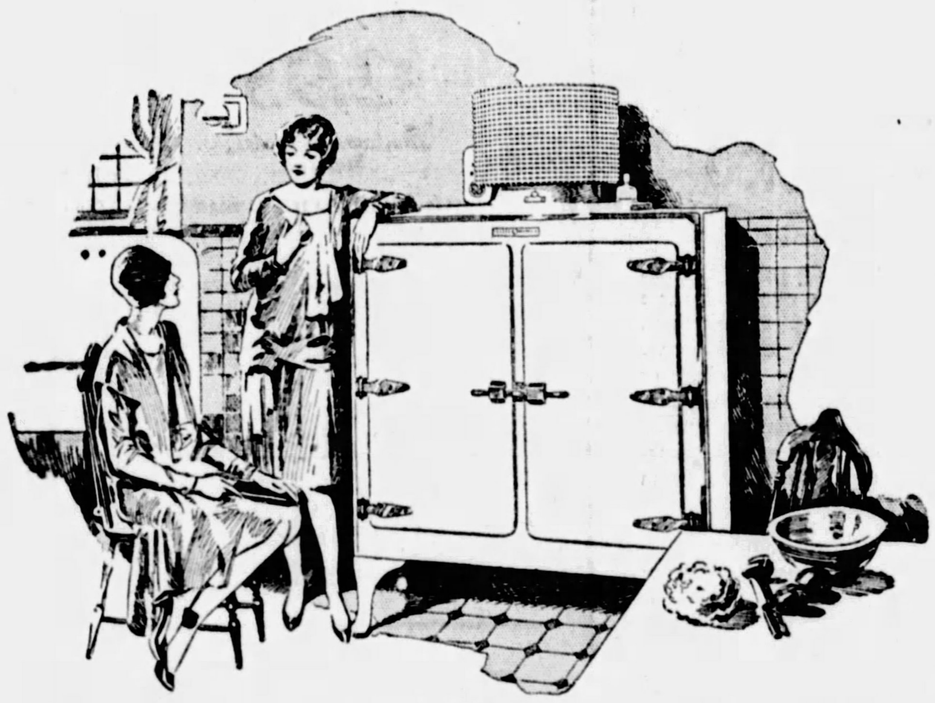
You can barely hear it!



GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

When the proud owner of a General Electric Refrigerator takes her friends in to see it, the first comment is apt to be "Why it's so quiet—you can barely hear it."

The thing which seems to impress everyone is the extreme quietness with which these refrigerators operate. Their unique construction has established a new standard for quiet operation.

This design, however, accomplishes something even more important. It makes possible the top-unit arrangement—a distinctive feature found only in the General Electric Refrigerator. Placing the unit on top makes it possible to enclose all the machinery—together with a permanent supply of metal protecting oil—in an hermetically sealed steel casing. There the hidden machinery, always oiled, remains safe from dust and difficulties. No one can tinker with it—no one needs to.

Quietly, economically, the General Electric Refrigerator gives you the perfect refrigeration that does away with food spoilage and safeguards health. It provides a generous supply of ice.

Its age is a private matter

It is very difficult to discover, by its appearance, how old a Lincoln is. Lincoln believes in making automobiles so beautiful that they are always modern — so durable that they simply won't wear out. The age of a Lincoln is no one's concern—least of all its owner's. On the boulevards a Lincoln of last season and the newest model share honors equally with Lincolns years older than either.

So fine is this car that a year or so of use does not perceptibly detract from any of its splendid qualities. Lincoln owners are often men who can, and do, provide the best professional care for their cars. Sometimes such well-kept cars are available at very attractive prices from Lincoln dealers. The wisdom of investing in such a motor car is quite evident, and shrewd buyers are quick to take advantage of the opportunity.

A few such Lincolns are now to be seen on our floor. Every one is in perfect mechanical condition. We are always glad to demonstrate them to you, without the slightest obligation. Drop in today.

EXPERTS BUILD UP WAR DEBT BANK PLAN

PARIS, March 13.—(AP.)—The sub-committees of the reparations experts yesterday applied themselves to the task of making all their reports fit into the skeleton of the proposed "trustee" or international bank for reparations payments.

The one thing definitely settled with respect to the projected gigantic financial institution is that a trustee of some kind must be found to succeed the agent-general for reparations if the Dawes plan is to be scrapped.

DISCORD BLOCKS PROGRESS

Some real differences of opinion among the experts must be ironed out before the committee can go farther. General approbation of the bank scheme as a general proposition seems to have covered some hitches as to the details of organization and the scope of operation.

The French press, presumably basing appreciations on revelation from expert sources, doubts the wisdom of establishing an international institution of the power it is proposed to give this bank. They prefer a "trustee" with powers limited to handling reparations payments in money and kind.

BRITISH PREFER CASH

The British, it is currently reported on good authority, are opposed to the whole scheme of extending deliveries in kind of the reparations account and would rather limit them, accepting a smaller total in cash, rather than forcing German exports to the detriment of British trade. The sub-committees are understood to have worked on those points with the idea of submitting some new suggestion at the plenary session this afternoon.

Year's Search Fails To Find $5,000 Heir

After a year's search throughout the country, the heir to a $5,000 estate here remained unfound today. The estate, consisting of real estate and cash, was left by Thomas J. Ryan, 64, who died at 307 Sandusky street March 7, 1928. Appointed by Orphans Court, Attorney John P. Ryan has traced all available records and broadcast by radio in quest of a claimant to the estate, but has found none. The testator came to Pittsburgh 28 years ago from New York City and engaged in the saloon business. He was unmarried.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes, such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income, as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

Farmer Convicted In Spread of Fire

BUTLER, Pa., March 13.—S. Plummer Christie, Washington Township farmer, was found guilty in the first case of its kind ever tried in a Butler County court. He was charged by E. S. Radcliffe, inspector of the State Department of Forests and Waters, with permitting a fire to spread from his farm to the property of others. Christie testified that he had settled all losses to the satisfaction of the neighbors affected.

SEPARATED TO TEST LOVE, HEIRESS REJOINS COWBOY

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 13.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie have resumed here their honeymoon which was interrupted two weeks ago when Robert J. Thorne, the bride's father, and former president of Montgomery Ward & Co., suggested that they separate for a time to find if they were really in love.

The former Miss Thorne met Gillespie, described as an "atmosphere" cowboy, while she was on vacation at an Arizona dude ranch. Two weeks ago they eloped and were married in Phoenix. Her parents sought a warrant for Gillespie's arrest on a charge of kidnaping, but officers declined to serve it when they found Mrs. Gillespie had given her age as 21. The bride returned a ring to a Chicago business man to whom she had been engaged up to the time of her elopement.

The girl's parents asked Gillespie to separate from his bride for a time to see if he could find a job. He obtained one as a motion picture cowboy here a few days later. Yesterday Mrs. Gillespie joined him and they began keeping house in a small apartment.

"For two weeks I listened to my parents' arguments," Mrs. Gillespie said, "but found that my love had increased during the separation.

"Of course, the situation has not been helped in any way by all this talk about George being just a cowboy. No one has taken into consideration the fact that he is a cowboy by choice. Had he remained in Tennessee, after he left college, and followed his parents' plans to make himself a bond salesman, I presume we would have saved all this notoriety. For some reason 'bond salesman' sounds so different to 'cowboy' for many people. But we have courage and high hopes, and life is all before us."

Viewers Appointed For Airport Land

Failing to reach a settlement with owners of three properties on Lebanon Church road, Mifflin township, needed for the county airport, the county commissioners have asked Common Pleas Court to appoint viewers to fix a price under condemnation proceedings. Judge James H. Gray appointed C. W. Reamer, R. M. Kopp and C. M. Shoaf as viewers. The properties include a lot 40 by 148 feet owned by the Mifflin School District, a tract 40 by 128 feet owned by the Mifflin Grange and about 17 acres owned by Nicholas Blank.

ASK 15 SALOON PADLOCKS

Preliminary padlocking injunctions against 13 saloons in Pittsburgh, one in Duquesne and one in Sharpsburg, have been granted by Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court. The injunctions followed raids by constables, prohibition agents and state police.

Among the Pittsburgh saloons enjoined were those of Sam Morfetas, 315 Market street; Aliso Piastrello, 507 Sixth avenue, and Merle Wilson, 15 South Diamond street.

OLD GOLD WINS AT PRINCETON

THE DAILY PRINCETONIAN

"The Daily Princetonian" was asked by the P. Lorillard Company, makers of OLD GOLD cigarettes, to conduct a test at Princeton to determine which of the four widest-selling cigarettes has the greatest taste appeal. The four leading cigarettes were "masked" to conceal the brand names. Undergraduates were asked to smoke the four brands without knowing their identity. The cigarettes were numbered, and the men merely chose, by number, the cigarette that appealed to them most. The test was made at eleven Princeton upper-class clubs and at the Freshman Commons on January 11th to 16th. 303 students smoked and compared the four cigarettes. The test was perfectly fair. The results show that "Cigarette W" won 75 first choices; "Cigarette X" won 74; "Cigarette Y" won 36; and "Cigarette Z" (which was OLD GOLD) won 118. The preference for OLD GOLD was 57% greater than that for the next highest brand.

NOTE. Smoke the cigarettes, but not the "masks."

MERGER OF AIR FIRMS DENIED BY OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP.)—Robert Lehman, chairman of the executive committee of the Aviation Corporation, recently organized with initial capital of $25,000,000 as a development and holding concern, revealed yesterday that as yet the company has acquired interest in no other companies.

In an official announcement of the purpose of the Aviation Corporation it was said that it was expected holdings would consist largely of the majority of the common stocks of other companies and that interests might also be held in companies not controlled.

James A. Talbot, chairman of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation of America, also issued a statement in which he said the company was not going to be absorbed by any other organization. "Control rests with myself and my associates," he said. "And is not for sale."

The companies mentioned in the Wall Street reports officially denied by the Aviation Corporation chairman are the Fokker Company, the Fairchild Aviation Corporation, the Aviation Company of the Americas and Universal Aviation Corporation.

The same reports said that besides arranging for control of these companies the Aviation Corporation also was understood to have made offers for interests in the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, of Buffalo, N. Y., the Stearman Aircraft Corporation, of Wichita, Kan., and other companies. It also was said the company was thought to be counting on obtaining rights to manufacture the engines of Armstrong-Siddeley, Ltd., of England.

Meditations of a Wife

What Women Don't Tell

A DEMURE, old-fashioned girl is like the family Bible these days. Everybody respects and admires her, but nobody ever thinks of taking her out.

One of the funniest things in this egregious old world is to hear a fat, red-faced, little bald man describing the fascinating blonde queen he fears he may some day be weak enough to fall for.

* * *

About the most deadly "compliment" that a man can pay a woman is to assure her that "there's nothing wrong with her;" yet that is the most glowing praise that some wives ever receive.

The acid test of a man's love was his willingness to risk death or pneumonia for the sake of a kiss. But now that the flu epidemic has passed, there is no way of gauging the depth of his devotion.

* * *

Courtship: A mid-Victorian custom which once preceded marriage and was somehow confused with a quaint, old emotion called "love."

Men will fight for anything—just for love of a fight; but when two women cross swords and wits it is for love of a man.

* * *

Marriage, fountain pens and cigaret lighters all work, SOMETIMES—and most of the excitement in life consists in keeping your beautiful human faith that NEXT time, the thing will "click."

* * *

There was a time when no lady ever breathed a swear word—but that was when a run in her stocking was a personal and private matter.

* * *

To a bride in the first flush of furnishing a blue-and-white kitchenette, a place in the Hall of Fame would seem like a cruel demotion.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Good Body and Mind Greatest Blessing

LIFE is a battle. But it is a battle half won if the child is well born.

Don't misunderstand: When I speak of being well born I do not mean being born with a silver spoon in the mouth. Neither do I regard it as necessary to be born into the home of royalty or high position of any degree.

DR. COPELAND

The desirable birth I have in mind is to come into the world with a perfect body, pure blood, and normal function. To be without taint or blemish is the greatest blessing that can be given the infant.

What can be finer than the mating of two young persons and their gift to society of well-born children?

If by any chance these words are read by the parent of a baby not so favored, I shall be distressed if they are disturbing or the cause of unhappiness. It must be admitted at once that we have not progressed to the point where we may hope for a perfect race. Several generations will come and go before that golden age arrives.

Unfortunately for us, there are doubtful strains in every family. cannot escape the effects of what happened before we were born.

But even if we cannot avoid beginning life with certain defects, we can hope to overcome them, or, at least, to check their evil effects. That is our duty so far as our troubles are concerned. It is doubly our duty to do everything possible to wipe out the blemishes discovered in our children.

This is a long introduction to what I started to say about "anemia." You know what I mean by "anemia." It is that condition where the child seems to be without blood. There is no color in the lips and cheeks. The skin is almost like wax.

A child may be born with anemia. This is known as "congenital anemia."

This type is due to the illness of the mother. She has not had blood sufficient for her own needs, perhaps, and certainly not enough for her baby. In consequence it has anemia at birth.

The mother of such a baby is very likely to be pale and flabby, or else very thin and anemic herself. Perhaps the mother's condition is the result of chronic disease of some sort.

There is another form of anemia which is the result of wrong feeding of the infant. In consequence the child develops rickets or hidden scurvy. The anemic condition is one of the symptoms.

Postponing the weaning until the milk has decreased too much is one cause. Feeding the wrong bottle mixture is another.

Space permits little discussion of the treatment. Needless to say, proper diet and strict attention to fresh air, sunlight and cleanliness are essential to the cure.

Answers to Health Queries

B. N. Q.—What do you advise for falling hair?

R. C. P. Q.—If I ride in a train, automobile or boat I become sick at my stomach. What can I do for this condition?

A.—Your diet should be changed. Avoid sweets, excessive starches, coffee and tea.

A Reader. Q.—Would it be wise to take lemon juice for a rheumatic condition supposed to have been brought on by overeating of oranges?

A.—No. Have your doctor outline a suitable diet. The elimination and diet are both important factors in treating rheumatic conditions.

Be Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby is likely to wake you any night with that sharp cry which means just one thing—colic! Be ready. Keep a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house. A few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation comforts a colicky, fretful or feverish baby in a jiffy. In a few moments your anxiety is over and baby's sleeping soundly again. And you've only done what your doctor would advise. He'll tell you Fletcher's Castoria doesn't contain any harmful drug—that it's safe for the youngest infant and effective for children of all ages in cases of constipation, colic, gas, diarrhea and those upsets when you don't know just what is the matter. Avoid imitations. Genuine Castoria bears the Fletcher signature.

Somebody to Love -:- -:- By Paul Aslan

© 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

FROM the time you're the tiniest girl in the world, to the day when it seems that nothing else matters, there's always the desire for somebody to love.

When you're little it may be a rag doll or a stuffed bunny or a wooden duck that you love. Whatever it may be it for the time being satisfies that yearning for something or somebody to love.

When you're a little bigger and go to school, it may be the wonderful school teacher, or the girl who sits across the aisle from you. And from that the stages arrive rapidly.

Next comes the boy who shyly carries your books for you and you're unmercifully teased about being "Bob's girl." But it doesn't matter. You've somebody to love.

And oh, the wonderful day when the real love first comes to you. All your dreams are piled into one huge thrilling moment, when he tells you he loves you and the most ecstatic moment of life comes with his first kiss. And then the tiny baby fingers bring you someone else to love. And even in the Autumn of life when you turn to your pal and partner, you know there's still somebody to love. The most wonderful fountain of youth ever discovered—somebody to love!

LOVE'S AWAKENING -:- A CONTINUATION OF LOVE'S EMBERS

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Learns Reason for Harry's Strange Attitude

AT Lillian's mirthful comment that I could "stop the ostrich stunt now," I looked over at her with an expression that I tried hard to make one of blank innocent inquiry. But it was of no use. I knew as I met her eyes, dancing now, and entirely freed from the shadow which her husband's odd formality of speech toward her had brought there, that she suddenly had comprehended the reason for his queer manner. Dicky's bantering remark, which she had overheard, not only explained her husband's behavior to her, but had set her keen intelligence searching for the motive actuating that behavior. My badly disguised embarrassment had told her the rest.

"I'll attend to your case later," she told me laughing. "You will kindly go to my room after luncheon when the rest are gone for their drive."

"That sounds like a switching," Mary said idly, and Marion echoed her laugh. With relief I saw that neither of the young girls noted anything significant in the banter, while Mother Graham was so engaged in helping Junior with a puzzle picture that she had not even heard the conversation. But Katherine's eyes caught mine and I read mirthful understanding and commiseration in them.

Her glance and the air of joyous relief which positively radiated from Lillian enlightened me suddenly upon something which had been vaguely puzzling me. When I told Katherine of Harry's promise to curb his familiar slangy accosting of Lillian in deference to Marion's prejudices, and of his decision to go to the city during the remainder of his stepdaughter's vacation, Katherine first had declared the arrangement was just what Lillian's peace of mind needed, and then she had added dubiously: "If only she——" cutting her words off abruptly and refusing to finish her sentence.

I could finish that sentence now. "If only she doesn't misunderstand Harry's sudden change of manner." Katherine's unspoken fear had been realized. Lillian, with nerves keyed up to a foolish sensitiveness utterly foreign to her, had been puzzled and wounded by her husband's sudden strained formality to her so unlike his usual brusque, bantering affectionate manner.

I dreaded the interview with which Lillian playfully had threatened me, for I feared she would discover Harry's plan to go to the city on pretended business, yet my heart was eased of an old fear by her gloom at her husband's change of manner, and her patent joy when she discovered the reason for it. I had been afraid that having taken Harry back from her strong sense of duty to him and her quixotic belief in her responsibility for his treachery which so nearly cost Dicky's life in the World War, she was finding that renewed marital bond an irksome yoke. But if eyes mirror the soul, I had just seen in those of my friend the hurt look of a loving wife who finds her husband suddenly baffling in behavior, and the relief of finding that manner explained by some other hypothesis than displeasure or ennui with herself.

Katie's voice at the door was the most welcome interruption I ever had, and I gladly followed her to the kitchen for the advice she wished upon some domestic emergency. With the feeling that I was a coward, indeed, I remained in the kitchen until I heard the noise of the returning motorists, and was careful to let Lillian get no chance for speech aside with me until luncheon was finished and Mother Graham with Junior and Katherine had departed in state for their ride. Dicky at the last minute climbing into the seat beside Harry to the tumultuous delight of Junior.

Scarcely had they disappeared in one direction than from the other came a messenger from the local telegraph office in the village.

"Does Mr. H. Underwood live here?" he asked.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introductions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My troubles are introductions. If I am talking with a gentleman and my aunt (with whom I live) joins me, how should I perform the introduction?

2.—What should I say if the gentleman does not know my aunt's relationship to me?

3.—If I am in the office with my aunt and her employer comes in—how should she perform the introduction?

4.—An illness which has extended over some period of time and will probably continue to do so, keeps me in bed most of the time. Therefore, a visitor coming to the house, if he or she is to know me, must be introduced via bed, so to speak. Should the introduction be "Mr. Jones, this is Eunice" or "Eunice, this is Mr. Jones?"

6.—A woman to his wife?

7.—How should a man be introduced to a mixed group?

8.—A woman to a mixed group? E. G.

"AUNT MARY, may I present Mr. Allen?" is an excellent form of introduction for this occasion. Or, "Mr. Allen, this is my aunt." Or, if you wish to register the last name of your aunt, say, "Mr. Allen, this is my aunt, Mrs. Jameson."

2. You may indicate the relationship as I have suggested in the first answer.

3. The mention of the names only is enough in this kind of introduction; "Mr. Robinson, this is my niece, Miss Jameson."

4. Either form is correct, but "Mr. Jones, this is my daughter, Eunice" is the form oftenest used for this kind of family introduction.

5. "Mary, may I present Mr. Allen?" Or, "Mr. Allen, this is my wife."

6. "Mrs. Robinson, this is my wife." Or, if the two have heard much of each other, "Mary, this is Margaret."

7. Introduce the man first to the women present, and, of the women, first to the married women and then to the unmarried ones. Do not repeat his name too often, but still make every introduction perfectly clear, by looking at him, as you say his name: "Mrs. Robinson, may I present Mr. Galloway?" "Mrs. Knapp, Mr. Galloway?" "Mrs. Jones" and "Miss Gray, Mr. Galloway." Then the man is introduced to the other men by the mention of the names: "Mr. Knapp, Mr. Galloway," "Mr. Ross, Mr. Galloway."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a lady to write a letter of thanks to a gentleman who sends her an invitation to visit him, with other friends, next summer? He is a widower, she a widow.

YES, every invitation should be thanked for.

Back-Stage Secrets

By Edna Wallace Hopper

APPEARING several times daily on the theatrical stage taxes the skin to the utmost. The make-up meant for footlights is not the gently compounded range of tints used in the boudoir. Between acts makeup must be removed . . . in the most protective, delicate manner possible. And, in my case, quickly—because my numerous interests leave little spare time. In fact, my forty-odd years on the stage have taught me split-second efficiency in caring for my body.

You can follow my program at a cost of—

With the cosmetics I use you need only devote ten minutes a day to your own hair, skin, teeth and hands. The methods I recommend to you have preserved the petal-like fineness of my skin. In my sixties I appear to be a girl of twenty. European scientists each year ask that I submit to physical tests during my summer vacation abroad. My reactions are those of a young girl.

But it never has been my ambition to figure as a beauty culturist. Prolonging beauty is a pleasure to me—and a necessity, because my fame and fortune were won by beauty and upon it my career depends.

My Personal Invitation

So that you may try my program I have prepared a Beauty Set of the most important cosmetics I use daily. In addition I have added samples of Wave and Sheen, my hair dressing, and White Youth Clay. The Art Panel box is a happy achievement. You will be glad to have it for your dressing table or traveling case. Full sizes of the 7 beauty aids you will receive in this box would cost you $4. Send the coupon today with 50c to partially cover cost.

FREE I will include a free Certificate for a 50-cent tube of Quindent, the milk of magnesia tooth paste. So the cosmetics really cost you nothing.

CLIP HERE — AND MAIL TODAY

Gorgeously Colored Art Panel Box of Seven Beauty Aids I urge you to mail this special offer coupon at once to Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago—enclosing 50c (stamps accepted) for enough of my seven beauty aids to prove their value to you. MAYER, FILM MAGNATE, HOOVER'S DINNER GUEST

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Louis B. Mayer, film magnate; Mrs. Mayer and their daughters, Misses Edith and Irene, were dinner guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House last night.

Present also at this dinner, the first to be given by the President and Mrs. Hoover for guests outside the official family, were Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., Mrs. Jean Large, sister of Mrs. Hoover, and Mrs. Ida Koverman of Los Angeles.

After dinner was served, Mrs. Hoover showed Mrs. Mayer and her daughters through the stately rooms and corridors of the White House, while the President and Mr. Mayer conversed for more than an hour in the executive's study.

"I have known the President for a number of years, but never before have I seen him so at ease," said Mr. Mayer. He continued:

"One might expect that a new occupant of the White House would appear a bit awkward in his new surroundings. But not so with Mr. Hoover. His dynamic mind seems to function with ease under all new conditions. And Mrs. Hoover also is quite at home in the executive mansion."

BACKED HOOVER EARLY

Mr. Mayer was one of the "original Hoover men" in California. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City from Los Angeles. He arrived at the convention city 10 days before the big show, assisting in organizing the Hoover forces.

Mr. Mayer has been mentioned for the ambassadorship to Turkey. Asked last night whether he had discussed this subject with the President, he said:

"Nothing was said about that matter."

"It was just a family dinner," continued Mr. Mayer. "After the President and I repaired to his study, we discussed the general run of events."

President Hoover has taken a keen interest in the development of the motion picture industry. The new art of talking pictures specially has captivated the President's interest, and he showed much interest in the possibilities for developing the "talkies," Mr. Mayer revealed.

TALKIES AND TRADE

"The President seemed to be very much interested in exploring the effect of the talking pictures on our foreign trade," said Mr. Mayer.

"Our exports of motion pictures comprise about 25 per cent of the entire output in this country. You know that so far our talkies are produced only in the English language, so that it will be interesting to see how this works out in the foreign field.

"The talking pictures are revolutionizing the motion picture industry. They have come at the most auspicious moment, at a time when we in the industry were casting about for a lead into a larger field of entertainment.

"The talking pictures open a new vista. Plays that formerly could only be produced on the stage through the spoken drama, now can be produced in the talkies. A story that has a lot of subtlety, which can be presented only through the human voice, can now be produced in the talking pictures.

"President Hoover was interested in this revolutionary development in the third largest industry in the country. He asked me about the possibilities for using the talkies in the schools and colleges for educational purposes.

INDUSTRY PROSPEROUS

Mr. Mayer brought to the President tidings of growing prospertiy in the motion picture industry.

"I am confident that business is going to be wonderful under President Hoover's administration," said Mr. Mayer, resuming:

"I reported to the chief executive that the theater business is prosperous. This is an indication that the people are happy, prosperous, contented and seeking entertainment.

"The people are going to find that Mr. Hoover will be a president of speedy decision. There will be no vascillating on his part to cause upheavels in the business world.

"The business world wants the President to act promptly, in fact head off trouble through prompt action. Mr. Hoover knows this and has the ability to act accordingly."

Mr. Mayer and his family came to Washington from New York City yesterday especially for the White House dinner last night.

Mr. Mayer was here a week ago for the inauguration and he was among the first to shake Mr. Hoover's hand at the new executive's first reception after being installed into office.

WARDEN LAWES SPEAKS HERE

There is no criminal type, Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison declared last night in an address at the Y. M. and W. H. A. auditorium. In all men and women, he said, there are the seeds of crime; in some circumstances bring the seeds to an ugly flowering.

The warden expressed opposition to capital punishment. He had seen many men in the death house, he said, and nine out of 10 of them, were first offenders whose sudden passion had not been curbed by fear of death for themselves.

PROOF OF DYES is in the dyeing!

Words won't dye a dress, or coat, or sweater. It takes real anilines to do that. That's why Diamond Dyes contain from three to five times more anilines than any other dye—by actual test.

It's the anilines in Diamond Dyes that do the work; that give the colors such brilliance; such depth and permanence. It's real aniline that keeps them from giving things that re-dyed look; from spotting or streaking.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes. Then compare results. See how soft, bright, new-looking the colors are. Observe how they keep their brilliance. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. LIBERTY UNION OPPOSES COAL POLICE BILL

News that M. A. Musmanno had acted sponsor for Gov. John S. Fisher's coal and iron police legislation today evoked from the Civil Liberties Union's secretary, Frederick W. Woltman, this statement:

"The administration coal and iron police measure is totally inadequate and an insult to Western Pennsylvania.

"An explanation is due from Representative Michael A. Musmanno for his change of front. When John Borkoski was murdered on the property of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Musmanno expressed abhorrence and introduced a bill calling for the abolition of the coal and iron police.

"Now he suddenly appears as champion of an insipid measure, which, according to reports, continues the coal and iron police in full force and power."

To protest against the measure, the local branch of the Civil Liberties Union is sponsoring a public meeting to be held at the Moose Temple, 628 Penn avenue, next Sunday, March 17, at 3 p. m.

Enjoys Million For Year, Gives It to Kin

MINE GUARDS' TRIAL IN APRIL

W. J. Lyster, Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapakis will go on trial in April for the murder of John Borkoski, Tyre coal miner, who is alleged to have been beaten to death in the barracks of the Pittsburgh Coal Company coal and iron police at Imperial.

Lyster, formerly a lieutenant of the coal company's police, and Watts and Slapakis, former privates in the service, were indicted Tuesday by the grand jury on first degree murder charges.

FISHER'S COAL POLICE BILL PRESENTED

HARRISBURG, March 13.—(AP.)—The administration bill to regulate private police was introduced in the House of Representatives late yesterday by Representative M. A. Musmanno, of Allegheny.

The measure restricts the powers of industrial police—as these officers are designated in the bill—to within 1,000 feet of the property owned by the company employing the police.

BORKOSKI CASE ECHO

Representing the reaction of Gov. Fisher to the death of John Borkoski, Tyre miner, in Representative Musmanno's district recently after a beating allegedly administered by three coal and iron policemen in the employ of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the measure, drafted by Cyrus E. Woods, attorney general, sets up strict requirements for applicants for private police commissions.

It requires the filing of a $2,000-bond by each applicant; certification by three reputable citizens as to the applicant's good character; filing of a copy of the commission in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county in which the company's property is located and gives the Governor the power to ask for monthly reports from the policemen he commissions.

ENDS 'ROVING' COMMISSIONS

The bill limits authority of the industrial police in all cases except for express companies to within the property to be guarded. In cases where such properties abut highways or streets, the police have jurisdiction for 1,000 feet beyond the property.

The Governor may revoke commissions at his pleasure without giving cause and can refuse commissions at will.

Beaten, Sues Coal Policeman, Troopers

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 13.—Robert McKee, George Williams and James Maroney, members of Troop A, state police, here; Homer Likens, a coal and iron policeman, and John Millinger, a deputy constable, are named defendants to a $10,000 damage suit instituted in civil court here by John Badanjak, of Herminie, as a result, Badanjak claims, of a severe beating inflicted upon him by the men on April 30, 1928. Badanjak claims that the men took him to a house at Herminie No. 2 and he was beaten with a blackjack and a piece of wood.

EAT YEAST IN THIS MODERN FORM

I want to tell you how I coaxed him to eat--

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

"Once I was worried. Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

JOHNNY MARVIN ON AIR; LOPEZ STARTS NEW HOUR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

THE pistol shots we promised you some weeks ago in "The Moonshiner's Daughter" will be introduced tonight in the Show Boat presentation of "The Girl from Texas," WJAS at 9. Not only pistol shots but the thundering of horses' hoofs, humdrum music and the playing of a mechanical piano in a western saloon. The episodes occur on a Texas ranch and in the Grand Rapids, giving extra wide latitudes for sound effects.

The Columbia station in Pittsburgh, seems to have the cream of highlights tonight, with Johnny Marvin at 9:30 p. m. and the Columbia University Glee Club at 10.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Programs from KDKA and WCAE promise pre-St. Patrick's Day cheer and favorite songs.

A tenor will sing "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," a violinist will play Herbert's "Sweet Mystery of Life" and a vocal trio will do "O Dem Golden Slippers," WCAE at 7:30 o'clock.

"Estrellita" will be sung as a tenor solo on the WCAE concert at 8 p. m., while a series of Irish jigs will top off the Shavers' appearance at 9 o'clock.

We anticipate some fun in the WENR Minstrel Show at 10 o'clock, while WLW will come through with several good features tonight.

Mike, the Radio Hound, will be featured with Henry Fillmore and his band, WLW at 10:30 o'clock. A trombone novelty by Fillmore will be a specialty.

"Flora's Holiday," the cantata, will be offered by WLW at 11:30.

Rushing St. Patrick's Day season, the Franklin Ensemble, WLW at 9, will present a fantasy by Langey woven from songs of Ireland and Scotland; selections from Herbert's "Eileen" and an old Irish song, "Believe Me, of All Those Endearing Young Charms," to be played by the stringed instruments in a special arrangement by Otto Brasch, a member of the Cincinnati Symphony.

Little Jack Little will be with the Thirteenth Hour crowd at one o'clock Thursday morning.

"GIRL FROM TEXAS."

The highlight of the prologue is a fashionable ball in a New York home which is disturbed by a convict's return, while in the first act an exciting card game furnishes a thrilling climax to the act. The other interesting episodes occur on a Texas ranch and in Grand Rapids.

The players will make liberal use of all sound effects to increase the radio audience's enjoyment of this drama. The music at the ball, the saloon's mechanical piano, the thundering of horses' hoofs, pistol shots, and even the slapping of cards upon a table will be effectively done.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Elizabeth Arbuthnot Shaw Selects April 6 as Wedding Day

EVEN though we know this fleeting visit of spring, the most fickle of the seasons, has not routed blustery old winter until next December, we cannot help succumbing to the charm of these golden days. If snow does come between us and the sun again, we have the comforting knowledge that spring will at last cease to elude us, and come to stay during April and May.

Spring-like weather not only has intrinsic value, but serves to stimulate interest in all sorts of delightful plans. Among these plans, the social world is glad to find, are matrimonial affairs.

As you've probably inferred by this time, I've a spring wedding date to tell you about. Elizabeth Arbuthnot Shaw, of Glenshaw, daughter of the late Henry Clay Shaw and Fannie Patchin Shaw, has named Saturday, April 6, as the date for her marriage to William Boone Groves, of Pittsburgh and New Bern, N. C., son of Mrs. Henry McDowell Groves, of New Bern. Their engagement was announced in October by Miss Shaw's sister, Dr. Katherine Lydia Shaw, of Glenshaw and Sewickley.

The wedding will take place that afternoon at 6:30 o'clock in the Glenshaw Valley Presbyterian Church. A reception and dinner in the Shaw family home will follow. After her marriage Mr. and Mrs. Groves will make their home in Glenshaw.

I'm sure you'll be interested to know who will be in the bridal party. Mrs. Harold Frank Shattuck, of Birmingham, Ala., will be matron of honor, and Margaret Fay Shaw, Elizabeth's sister, will be maid of honor. Esther Dawson, of Glenshaw, and Katherine Johnston, of Elfinwild, will be bridesmaids.

Henry McDowell Groves, of Cleveland, will be his brother's best man. And the ushers will be M. Howard Rambo, of Pittsburgh; Dan Evans Tatom, of Glenshaw, Elizabeth's brother-in-law, and William Wharton Groves, of Pittsburgh. Howard Shaw, of Sewickley, Elizabeth's uncle, will give her in marriage.

Elizabeth is a Wilson College girl, and her fiance is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

AFTER languishing most of the winter, Cupid is reviving with this foretaste of spring. Engagements and weddings follow very closely sometimes now. One day after receiving the announcement of the engagement of Mrs. Jeanne Harriet Gray, daughter of the Lawrence Barrs, of Pittsburgh and New York, to Brant Murray Saunders, of Montreal, son of the Fred C. Saunderses, of Bedford, Quebec, I have news of the wedding. Their marriage, a pleasant surprise to the social set in Pinehurst where the Barrs and their daughter have been spending the winter, took place yesterday in the Village Chapel.

Mr. Saunders saw service in the World War in the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

SPRING is an incentive to travel, whether one is going away or coming back home. Mrs. Taylor Allderdice is now in St. Louis, the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Edward Schofield Travers. She's expected home early next week.

NO matter what the season or the weather may be, New York always attracts Pittsburgh folks. Mrs. William McKennan Reed, of Fifth avenue, is now in Gotham, I've heard.

And Mary Louise Johnson, daughter of Mrs. William Terrell Johnson, of Forbes street, is in New York again, too. She'll return on Saturday, I believe.

MISS CAROL BETTY NIEBAUM, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry John Grant Niebaum, and Paul George Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin George Beyer, were married yesterday at noon in the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. Dr. Norman C. Milliron. Miss Bertha C. Booth was the only attendant, and Charles H. Beyer, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Alfred P. Wessel, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer.

MISS THERESA F. LOEB, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Loeb, of Beacon street, and Joseph F. Cerf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Cerf, of the Schenley Hotel, were married Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the French room of the Schenley Hotel by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of the Rodef Shalom Temple.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore white satin, trimmed with Duchess lace, her mother's wedding gown. Her veil was of rose pointe lace and tulle, trimmed in orange blossoms. She carried a Bible, showered with lilies of the valley, gardenias and orchids.

David Kohn was his brother-in-law's best man, and Bernard Brooks, of New York, and Lewis Feder, of Cincinnati, the ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Cerf are now on a West Indian cruise.

ST PATRICK'S DAY decorations have been planned for the University of Pittsburgh College Association formal dance to be given Friday evening in the Hotel Schenley. James Patterson, chairman of the dance, will be assisted by Robert Taylor, Paul Zehfuss, Miss Marie Brackmann, Charles Hyatt, Miss Ruth Sawders and Miss Gertrude Ifft. Miss Mabel DeForest will lead the grand march.

THE annual Purim masquerade dance of Beth Irael Auxiliary will be held Thursday evening, March 28, in Masonic Hall. Mrs. M. W. Grandell is general chairman, and Mrs. H. Jacob, vice chairman. Mrs. M. Moses, Mrs. S. Black, Mrs. I. Cohen, Mrs. L. Michaels, Mrs. N. Marsh, Mrs. J. P. Esman and Mrs. S. Wolfe will be aides.

Before the Pilgrims Landed

When Plymouth Rock was just a rock unknown, unheralded, Jean Denys of Harfleur sailed the Rognoust across the seas to Newfoundland, the first of many hardy and forgotten men to reach the lands Jacques Cartier later claimed for France in 1534. ◇ Even great Spain requested Breton pilots in those spacious days when seamanship meant conquest. ◇ Soon the Grand Banks were full of dancing cockleshells...and still they fish two thousand miles from home. ◇ And so traditions of the sea grew greater still, till not a port around the earth but knew the steady eyes of Breton sailormen. ◇ With comrades from Provence, they man today those French Line ships whose service is their birth-right and their pride. ◇ The "France" the "Paris" and the "Ile de France", giants that form the Weekly Express Service between New York, London and Paris, take only men who graduate with honors from lesser units of that world-girdling fleet that numbers one hundred and ten. ◇ The "De Grasse" and "Rochambeau" for a leisurely cabin crossing.

How to Darken Gray Hair

By BERYL WEST

I repeat what I have often said—there's no excuse today for a woman submitting to gray hair and looking older than she feels. Gray, faded or streaked hair may be so perfectly restored to color that it need be only your own boudoir secret. Nothing more or less than a mixture of sage tea and sulphur is the magic.

One may either prepare the mixture at home, or as most people prefer to do, buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the ready-to-use preparation and since all druggists sell it at 75c a bottle, there is really no need of going to the trouble of making it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it, and draw it through the hair, one strand at the time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your gray, faded or streaked hair to its original color. There is no artificial, dyed look. The whole effect is one of perfect naturalness. My readers would be surprised if they knew of the thousands of men and women who use this preparation.

TALKIES MAKE IT DIFFICULT FOR ANIMAL STARS OF MOVIEDOM

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.

THIS happened in a goodly sized town, where "The Barker" played. After the show, a woman stalked to the box office and demanded her money back. "Didn't you like the picture, madam?" asked the ticket chopper. "It was all right," she answered, "but the title misled me. I expected to see Rin-Tin-Tin!"

Which reminds me. Where is Rin-Tin-Tin these days? Answer: Making a voodvil tour. The talkies aren't kind to four-legged stars, whose trainers must be directing them every camera minute. . . . Irvin Willat lone-wolfed it to a party 'tother eve and right away eyebrows performed question mark acrobatics. But Billie—Billie Dove—sent word she had to study her lines for the next day's work and couldn't make gay. . . . Mervyn Leroy annexed a whoopy cold on the "Broadway Babies" sound-stage and spent last Sunday in bed rekuping. . . . Bebe Daniels escorted her 80-year-old grandmother on her initial sky-ride, with Ben Lyon piloting. They spun around gaily. Bebe saw her grandmother lean into the cockpit and figured this the usual symptom of seasickness, so she hi-signed Ben to land. When they taxied to a stop, her grandmother wanted to know why Ben came down so soon!

Edmund Admits He's Pretty Good

IT HAPPENED in a Turkish bath. Whence Eddie Lowe went. As he lolled in comfort, a robust male marched in and seated himself nearby. His arms were tattooed. He had that deep sea look. In due course he introduced himself—Col. Marix of the Marine service. During the war he had been a brigadier-general in charge of the Naval Bulldogs in the neutral zones of Sweden and Norway. As Col. Marix started to discuss pictures, Eddie refrained from introducing himself. Seemed the Colonel had liked the sergeant in "Old Arizona." Eddie modestly admitted he thought him pretty good himself! And the Colonel had liked the same guy in "What Price Glory." Eddie smiled. Surest thing you know. 'Twas all oke until John Bowers strolled in and cried: "Hello, Eddie Lowe. What you doin' here?" But the Colonel was a good sport about it.

Sees Culture For Hollywood

It happened at a party. Jesse Lasky was telling a group of W. K.ers that in some 10 years Hollywood would be the center of culture. Whereupon Beulah Livingstone, publicist of note, remarked mildly: "OH, YES—OF HORTICULTURE!"

Add Movie Vocabulary: "Lock 'Em Up"—referring to the camera booths. "Turn 'Em Over"—referring to the camera. Listens like headlined Hollywood.

THESE STARS :-: ARE ALL FROM :-: GERMAN STUDIOS

Emil Jannings' success in American pictures started a small German invasion of Hollywood, which includes three of his countrywomen.

For example, take Lily Damita. She came from the Berlin stage to heroine opposite Ronald Colman and made her movie debut in "The Rescue."

Then there's Camilla Horn, a recent German importation, who helps John Barrymore with the romance in his new film, "Eternal Love."

Another girl from Berlin is Dita Parlo, European film actress, who makes her movie debut in America in the foreign picture, "Homecoming."

Temperament Of Pola Costs Her Film Role

PARIS, March 13.—(INS.)—Capt. Jefferson Davis Cohn, millionaire English race horse owner, has confirmed reports that his wife will take over Pola Negri's part in the French film, "The Queen's Necklace." Miss Negri recently relinquished the part following a temperamental clash with the producer of the picture.

PRETTY TUNE PIECE TO RETURN

"Dracula," being presented in the Nixon twice today, and for the remainder of the week, with another matinee Saturday, is based on the novel of the same title by Bran Stoker, written 30 years ago. Raymond Huntley plays the title role of Count Dracula.

Next week Pittsburgh theatergoers again will be afforded opportunity to witness "Blossom Time," the hardy perennial which returns to the Alvin for the second visit this season, making the thirteenth time this operetta has played Pittsburgh. The seat sale opens tomorrow morning. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. John Charles Gilbert, Genevieve Naegele, Robert Lee Allen and Herbert Lyle appear in the leading roles.

There will be a matinee performance tomorrow in the Pitt, with "Skidding," comedy of American life, as the attraction. Adele Ronson, Carleton Macy, Helen Lowell and James Norris play the more prominent roles.

Edna Wallace Hopper, now aged 62, but still retaining her youthful appearance and vivacity, which has earned her the title of "the eternal flapper," will headline the program of two-a-day vaudeville in the Davis next week.

In Concert

John Charles Thomas, well-known baritone, will give the closing Art Society Concert in Carnegie Music Hall on Friday night. Thomas has been engaged to take the place of Elizabeth Rethberg, who was taken suddenly ill. All remaining engagements for her spring tour have been canceled.

AFTER ONE WEEK KONJOLA BROUGHT SPLENDID HEALTH

Relates How Two Years of Ill Health Yielded to Merits of Famous Medicine — Pays Glowing Tribute to New Remedy.

Remarkable, indeed, are many of the surprising recoveries that Konjola, the new medicine, has brought about; cases that have yielded to this super-remedy after having resisted every other medicine and treatment tried. Not a day passes but that the records of this master medicine are enriched by the reports from those who have found in this compound of 32 ingredients the only remedy that touched their cases. How Konjola does this; how it works so quickly in the obstinate cases, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city. Daily, throngs call to learn what this amazing medicine means to them. There the Konjola Man is pointing out verified instances of Konjola's triumphs. He does not deal in promises; Konjola's record of success is its recommendation; therein lies the bright hope for all who suffer. How interesting is the experience of Mr. William J. McDonald, 827 Merchant Street, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

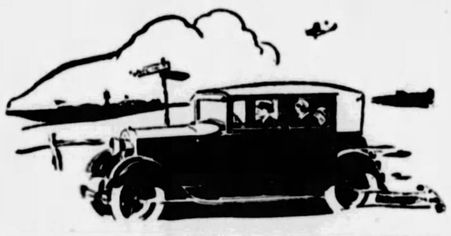
"Konjola worked in such a speedy manner that I was absolutely amazed. I had taken but one bottle when my health troubles vanished. Two years ago I got into a terribly rundown state. My system was weak and my organs functioned sluggishly. I suffered a great deal with my stomach. Pains centered in my lower bowels. Gas bloating, a sour stomach and indigestion pains occurred after each meal. My appetite was entirely gone and I was unable to rest well at night. I was inclined to be nervous and had but little energy or pep. I tried many medicines and treatments but failed to get any relief.

"I was inclined to scoff at the idea of Konjola benefiting me. I failed to see how this one medicine could accomplish all that the others failed to do. But when my case got worse, I was willing to take one more chance for betterment. Well, Konjola turned out to be all that is claimed for it. After just one week, a remarkable change came over my system. My stomach was cleansed and strengthened—food digested better than in two years and the after-eating distress vanished. I gained strength and energy—felt almost like a different person and was sleeping soundly at night. My nerves are calm and settled. In every way I have been benefited. I can only say that Konjola richly deserves all the praise and more than it receives."

Just another splendid chapter in the astounding history of this master medicine; just another reason why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear



WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and Houdaille shock absorbers used on the new Ford.

Though the Ford tires are 30 x 4.50 in size, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel spoke wheels.

Another unusual feature of the new Ford tires is the provision for balancing the tire assembly. Every tire is marked on the side-wall with a red spot to show where the valve stem should be when the tube is inserted. This is just a little thing, but it assures a uniformly high standard of tire performance at all speeds.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent the possibility of premature wear of the tires.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY CHAPLAIN CALLS FOR TEMPERANCE

DRY LAW 'UNSCIENTIFIC IN OUR SCIENTIFIC AGE'

The Very Rev. D. Wilmot Gateson, dean of the Pro-Cathedral of the Nativity and chaplain of Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., has submitted to the Hearst Temperance Prize Contest what he believes to be the best method of supplanting prohibition by a real temperance plan.

The temperance contest editors are of course unable to quote from the plan itself, as it must be submitted to the board of judges at the close of the contest, but Dean Gateson in a preamble to his solution of America's most pressing problem, declares:

"The proper approach to the whole subject of the control of alcoholic beverages, and consequently its solution, is through the scientific method. This is preeminently a scientific age. Science is being applied to criminology and other social disorders. Let that method be thoroughly and expertly applied here; then hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may.

"The Eighteenth Amendment, right or wrong, was not conceived in the scientific spirit. It was the child of fear, emotion, hope and good intention. For a century well-meaning individuals and societies saw the evils of alcoholism, and the movement grew for its abolishment along with the fight for the abolition of human slavery and the acquisition of woman's rights. They thought a law would end the evil.

"Law did not end slavery without violence and lawlessness. Woman's suffrage required a long time, some rough measures and not a little ill-feeling. The stubbornness of the opponents of prohibition was not adequately foreseen by these reformers. Consequently, many people today, faced with the pros and contras, are in doubt as to its wisdom. If the respectable citizens of our country were more sure of their ground, better conditions would prevail. And the public and press and Congress would have assurance in favor of pressing obedience to and enforcement of the law or they would demand a change.

"President Hoover's proposed inquiry into the subject is a move in the right direction, but it does not go wide and deep enough. It concerns itself chiefly, if not only, from the angle of jurisprudence. That is one side, an important side, but only one of several, in the investigation this plan proposes. Furthermore, the appropriation asked for in Mr. Hoover's inquiry would be totally inadequate, as well as the field of investigation too limited.

"The proposal for the solution of the problem of prohibition here offered is a thorough investigation along all lines, and especially into the effects of light wines and beers, as well as high-powered liquors. This investigation might be undertaken by private philanthropy as a public service; Congress might appoint such a broad commission of inquiry; or the prohibition unit itself might well assume the task as part of its own program. Information and education have been too long disregarded."

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

AIR NOTABLES PRAISE CITY

The site for the proposed county airport can be made into an ideal air station, William P. MacCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, declared last night at the aircraft show dinner in the William Penn Hotel.

Secretary MacCracken lauded Pittsburgh for its part in the advancement of aviation, and in this he was seconded by Clarence Chamberlain, trans-Atlantic flier, who also spoke. Chamberlin foresaw a bright future for Pittsburgh as a flying center.

KNEES AND CLOTHES HURT IN FALL, GIRL BILLS COUNTY

Miss Birdie I. Tretton, of Stowe township, yesterday asked Allegheny county to buy for her new shoes, stockings and gloves, and to pay for cleaning her dress and for medical attention to remove cinders from her knees. The request was made to the county commissioners.

Miss Tretton, who is a manicurist and red-haired, based her claim upon alleged negligence of the county in allowing a depression to exist in McCoy road, Stowe township, near her home.

She fell into the depression three weeks ago, and when she arose was what most girls would call a mess, Miss Tretton said.

So, she went to an attorney and through him presented to Allegheny county a bill for: One pair of slippers, $12.50; Hose, $3; gloves, $5; cleaning dress, $3.50; medical attention, $7.

Miss Tretton hinted, through her attorney, that if the bill remained unpaid she might sue.

The county legal department has been asked for an opinion.

Mrs. Coolidge Will Give $2,000,000 To School

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge today will present to the trustees of the Clarke School for Deaf here, a check for $2,000,000, representing the Coolidge endowment fund for the school, it was learned last night. The fund was completed shortly before the Coolidges left the White House. It was begun through Mrs. Coolidge's interest in the school, where she taught before her marriage.

Miss Bessie N. Leonard, principal of the Clarke School, said that simple ceremonies would be held.

"Mystery" Man's Death Reveals Big Estate

NEWARK, O., March 13.—O. M. Crego, 58, whose body was found in a rooming house at 172 East Main street, where he had lived a mysterious life for the past year, was wealthy, it was revealed when Health Commissioner W. H. Knauss and Undertaker E. J. Criss searched part of his effects. They found notes, checks and U. S. bonds aggregating $36,810.

It was also learned that Crego's home is in Galena, 23 miles northwest of this city. His only living relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Lulu Garlinghouse and Mrs. Charles McWilliams, both of Galena. The entire belongings have not been searched and it is believed by the sisters that he had additional property.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THERE is an air of mystery at the general delivery window of the postoffice. Men and women calling for mail at that window bear an anxious air. There are a few steady callers, but in the main the visitors at that window come in search of hoped-for word and depart to come back no more. They'll look again at the general delivery window in the next town they strike. There was no mail for four callers the other day and they all walked out with a more worried expression than they had when they walked to the window.

In some of the Water street stores the customer gets service with a capital S. Two salesmen stand in the doorway near the windows and the shopper who stops to look at the mouth organs, the diamond rings marked: "Special at $4.45," is soon invited in. Customers seem to run to caps and flannel shirts.

WATER STREET is the real Suit-Case row of the town. There are few stores in that vicinity that do not display a big lineup of suitcases. You can get a suit of clothes, hanging on the hooks in the open air, for $7 or $8, the only disadvantage being that they probably have been worn sometime before by gentlemen who came upon misfortune and were forced to pawn their pants and vest and coat.

In that section of town flourishes, too, the "hotels" that rent rooms at 25 cents a night and restaurants that put up a lunch for 15 cents, displaying in the windows pans of beans, hamburger steak and something that looks suspiciously like a fried pork chop to entice the customers. The customers run to overalls, sweaters and caps, and they finger judiciously the small coins they have before entering the eating places.

THEY used to kid about the fellow who said he was going to take his music lesson—learning to run a talking machine—but now since the talking movies came in there is a musician employed to put on and take off the records. He gets the union scale.

The misadventure known as the Glory Barn, in West Carson street, where a revival fell flat and left the evangelist holding the well-known bag, may be diverted to purposes not in mind, certainly, when it was first erected. There is talk of turning it into an amusement center for such things as marathon dancing, boxing and six-day bicycle races. The sawdust trail threatens to be sprinkled with red lemonade and hot dogs.

THE tablet bearing the Ten Commandments has been placed on the bay window of John Francies' office. Mr. Francies, the county treasurer, has had no end of explaining since his office was selected as the most appropriate place for displaying the Commandments. He doesn't object at all to the tablet, but he doesn't like the way his friends look at the tablet and then smile significantly.

GLORY AWAITING TYPICAL U. S. GIRL

NOMINEES NEED NOT BE RICH OR FAMOUS

The quest for a "typical Pittsburgh girl" is NOT a motion picture, popularity or beauty contest. Pittsburghers should keep this in mind when nominating young women for the honor of representing this city as its typical girl in the national contest to be held in New York by the Smart Set Magazine.

Besides the glory of being named the typical girl of this city, should the girl chosen be named the "typical American girl," she will receive $5,000 from the Smart Set Magazine and have her portrait painted by Guy Huff, famous artist.

Many photographs and biographies of nominees for this title are being received by the Quest Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. At a time to be mentioned later, all the leading candidates will be assembled and the "typical Pittsburgh girl" selected by a jury of experts.

SEEK "AVERAGE" GIRL

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Smart Set Magazine are not searching for the EXCEPTIONAL American girl—rather, a girl is being sought who strikes the happy average. Thus the candidate who comes nearest to this should naturally be endowed with typical qualities. This should be remembered by those proposing typical girls.

Many hesitate in naming a girl for this honor because she is not a beauty, a movie star, a famous sports girl or one who has made an exceptional fortune in business. The fact that she is not in the spotlight of fame or fortune is very much in her favor and there is no reason why she should not have an opportunity to reap the substantial rewards in store for the 20 girls selected as regional winners.

RULES OF QUEST

Rules of the quest follow:

1—A "typical Pittsburgh girl" is being sought who represents young American womanhood, in character, intellect, appearance, etc. The quest started March 1 and ends March 31 at midnight.

2—A candidate cannot propose herself. She must be proposed by some individual, club or organization. This proposal must be sent to the Quest Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

3—Each candidate's proposal must be accompanied by her photograph, biographical sketch listing age, weight, height, coloring, education and her social and athletic activities.

4—The girl chosen as the "typical Pittsburgh girl" will be sent to New York with a chaperon and compete with 19 other girls from as many different cities for the title of the "typical American girl," which carries with it a reward of $5,000. In the event of a tie, each of the tying candidates will receive an equal amount.

5—The minimum age for a "typical girl" is 17 years.

The Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph urges that the name, photograph and qualifications of all candidates be sent without delay.

Every effort will be made to return photographs when desired, but this paper will not be held responsible for them.

CITY PARK LAND PROPOSAL UP TO BOARD

A plan to improve Allegheny High School by building a stadium, two gymnasiums and a swimming pool on city park property, across Sherman avenue from the school, was in the making today.

A tentative proposal was submitted at a Board of Education meeting yesterday. It was referred back to committeemen, who were told to make its provisions more specific before negotiations were opened with City Council for use of the land.

The land originally was granted as "common pasture," but no one seemed to believe this would constitute an insurmountable obstacle.

The school itself is "our most undesirable building." Superintendent W. M. Davidson told the board in answer to a statement from Dr. C. B. Connelley, who reported agitation for early improvement of the school had risen to a high pitch on the North Side. It was suggested that students from outside the city be excluded to relieve congestion in class rooms.

Dr. Davidson was authorized to prepare tentative plans for erection of an addition to the Taylor Allderdice High School, Shady and Forward avenues, which would increase the capacity of that school to 3,000 pupils. The addition would cost $600,000, it was estimated.

U. S. RUM DRIVE ON IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 13.—(AP.)—The federal government, through District Attorney George Q. Johnson, has announced its intention to help police dry up Chicago.

Five government attorneys have been assigned to obtain indictments and follow through with swift prosecution of violators under the Jones law. Johnson expressed the belief that indictments under this law in Chicago would soon average 250 a month.

Minor offenders will be turned over to state courts for trial, Johnson said. Well-known violators, however, will be indicted by the federal grand jury and tried under the Jones law, with its maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

The District Attorney conferred yesterday with Police Commissioner Russell and announced that federal and city agencies were in accord, and that a concentrated drive vrst would be made to rid the Loop District of liquor. Johnson indicated that under his present arrangement the government will have much more time to devote to manufacturers, importers and transporters of liquor.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 13.

Hurrah for Texas for taking the comedy away from Oklahoma. I have heard of a man being made a Democrat by persuasion, peculiarity of mind, and mostly by purchase, but the great state of Texas is the first one to make a man (or his two-legged equivalent) a Democrat by act of legislature.

They passed a bill saying, "If you are a Democrat, you have to stay a Democrat. You can't vote one way one election and one way the next. If you are a man that changes your mind, you are not a Democrat."

It don't say anything about the Republicans. They can come over to the Democrats without committing bigamy.

Now, here is a tip to my good friend Dan Moody, the governor. When a child is born of what is suspected of Democratic parentage, brand it with the letter "D" on the left hip. Then at election time just run 'em through the chute and tally 'em.

Yours,

WILL.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dick Stuyvesant and Felicia Brett, both in Reno for divorce, meet and fall in love with each other. With Dick at the hotel is a bachelor friend, John Berkeley, usually called J. B. Felicia with her 6-year-old son, is visiting the Hodges, old friends from the East, now permanent residents of Reno. Her husband, Alexander Brett, comes to Reno and on her refusal to return to him, threatens to take little Alex away from her. He hires detectives to watch Felicia and has two gunmen kidnap the boy. The boy is rescued by an odd character known as the Desert Rat and restored to Dick and J. B., who are out looking for him with a member of the state police. From the report of his private detective, Brett learns that the Rat was once a prosperous broker, Stephen Pierce. Brett recognizes the name and laughs exultantly. With the failure of the kidnaping attempt and no more visits from Brett, Felicia believes that her husband has abandoned his opposition. Dick notices a change in her, an interest in Reno festivities, that makes him anxious. He has to go away on a business trip, but wishes that he did not have to leave her. Restless in Dick's absence, Felicia accepts an invitation from young Peg Hodge to drive with her and two college boys. Her escort, Billy Blair, is openly admiring. When he offers her his flask, she hesitates, then takes it and drinks. Under the influence of the liquor and a spirit of devil-may-care, she permits Billy to kiss her. Then follows a bathing party at night and a separation into pairs. Billy makes love to Felicia and she returns his mad kisses. The next night the pleasure-mad crowd goes to an inn on the California-Nevada line. Billy takes Felicia into a private room and tells her he is crazy about her. Her scream when he attempts to embrace her is heard by Dick, who has stopped at the inn on his way back from his business trip. Dick takes her home. In a frank and reconciling talk a few days later, they agree to keep themselves clear from the dangerous side of Reno life. Brett, awaiting developments in a hotel at Lake Tahoe, overhears a young wife expressing bitterly her opinion of her aged husband. He wonders if Felicia feels like that.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI.

UNLIKE Felicia, the dark-eyed girl staying alone at the hotel by Lake Tahoe, seemed to think Brett interesting. She had seen the diplomat several times in New York, and had reminded him of that fact when they met in the lobby.

She was young and pretty, and as the chambermaid confided to the elevator boy, a 15-minute egg.

Brett, returning from his forced spying on the lawn, strode angrily up the veranda steps, and Miss Zelda O'Day called out a languid good-evening.

"Good-evening," said Brett, curtly, took another step, and paused. Why not test his idea? Why not find out the truth, find out if his attitude of love-making was hypocrisy? "Good-evening, my dear!"

Miss O'Day's plucked eyebrows ascended a possible sixteenth of an inch.

"So lovely a woman as you shouldn't be alone!" he told her, gallantly.

"I'm not—now," said Miss O'Day, smiling.

Brett was pleased. This business seemed to go off rather well at that. "So you're not, my dear—so you're not!"

He sat down beside her. Too old, was he, for this sort of thing?

"I wonder—" he glanced at his watch, and she watched him closely. "Would you join me in having a little wine? We could have it brought out here."

"That would be lovely!" Miss O'Day rewarded him with a soft flash of black eyes. New York Italian-Irish, one year in the chorus of a Broadway revue. . . . Zelda O'Day could have told him, then and there, everything he would say and do in the next 24 hours—and the order of his saying and doing it!

"To you, my dear!" He lifted his glass, fingering the long stem a little nervously.

"Thank you."

They talked idly.

"—when I was with Ziegfeld—" Miss O'Day slipped in, carelessly, and Brett's eyes glistened.

"Oh, you were in the Follies!"

She nodded. "He told me . . ." her voice went on, soothingly.

It was midnight when Brett suggested a stroll by the lake. Leaning back against a tree trunk, her black lace gown mysteriously melting into the night, Miss O'Day sang softly.

"Lovely!" said Brett. "Won't you sing something for me?"

Her dark eyes flashed; her throat was a curve of white, descending to the soft black of her gown. Then she sang a song. At the end she paused and smiled.

Brett cleared his throat.

"Delightful," he paused. "Any more?"

For answer, her voice, coaxing, vibrant, took up the strain.

Brett started. Had she done that on purpose? His voice trembled.

"You little devil!" he said. She laughed lazily.

"It's just the song, Mr. Brett!"

"Won't you call me Alex?"

"Um-m-m," said Miss O'Day. "I must go back to the hotel. It's getting late—Alex!"

He followed her excitedly. Was this really Alexander Brett?

"Good-night," she told him firmly, putting a soft white had into his. "Thank you for such a pleasant evening."

"Let's have more of them!" he begged her. "Could you dine with me tomorrow night?"

"Why—ye-e-es, I guess so. Good-night!" She smiled as she ascended in the elevator. "Why the poor old whatnot!" she said to herself, and the dark eyes were shining more brightly than ever as she closed herself in her room.

Brett didn't feel a day over twenty-one the next night as he escorted Zelda O'Day into the dining-room of a roadhouse—and what was better, Miss O'Day didn't seem to find him any older. She laughed and chattered and listened intently when he spoke. "How mar-r-velous!" her soft voice would say, and, "Really, Alex? Isn't that interesting?"

Five miles before they reached the hotel on the return trip, he stopped his car. Her eyes were questioning, challenging.

"You lovely thing!" he said, fervor doing duty for technique.

"Why, Alex!"

"Sing that song again—the one you sang last night!"

Miss O'Day drew her brows together. "What song was that?" she asked him.

Brett flushed. "Oh, I don't know what it was called. Something about—about misbehaving?"

"Oh, that!" Her laughter rang out, clear. "Why, you naughty boy—you seem to like that song!"

Naughty boy! Brett's heart turned clear over.

She became contrary, delightfully feminine. "I don't feel like singing."

He was leaning close to her, breathing heavily. "Perhaps—perhaps you feel very gay," he whispered.

"Why, Alexander!" But—

Her lips were soft to his kiss.

Old! Alexander Brett could have laughed in any young man's face. Old—when he held this lovely, desirable woman in his arms, this Follies girl, who knew a thing or two!

A young man, though, wise in these things, would have known better to park his machine on the outside of a curve. As Brett embraced Miss O'Day, an auto swept suddenly up and over the little rise behind their car and powerful headlights poured down upon them.

They sprang apart, Miss O'Day with the composure of one accustomed to bright lights, Brett cursing beneath his breath waiting for the intruders to pass.

But the car did not go on. It stopped, abruptly, just back of them, and the misbehaviorists turned to see what had happened.

"I should say," murmured Zelda O'Day, calmly, "that it was the whole family! Do they belong to you?"

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl :-: Story by Lloyd Mayer :-: By John Held, Jr.

MISS MARGY, MAY I HAVE A FEW WORDS WITH YOU?
WON'T YOU — SIT DOWN?
NO DOUBT YOU HAVE THOUGHT MY ACTIONS STRANGE, IN FACT I HAVE BEEN ALMOST CADDISH AT TIMES. BUT I HAVE HAD A REASON FOR IT ALL. AND I WANT YOU TO UNDERSTAND-
AND NOT THINK THAT I AM A COMPLETE BOOR - BECAUSE I-
YES, YES, GO ON!
HEY! MARGY! CAN I INTERRUPT?
WHY DO YOU ASK?

"My dear, I'm ALL-of-a-BIB-and-TUCKer at this point! I mean I'm so exCIted I could shell PEAnuts because I'm conVINCED this odd soul BASil has at LAST sucCUMBED to my inTRIguing CHARMS and whatnot, my dear, because he's SUDdenly become FRIGHTfully deVOted and all, my dear! F'r instance one time when I was SPRAWLing seductively on the BURNing sands he came LEAPing UP, my dear, and sat himself DOWN with a terribly SErious expression and began telling me I'd no doubt thought the way he'd been ACTing was frightfully STRANGE and BOORish and all, but that I mustn't think he'd been terribly RUDE because there was an explaNAtion that sort of cleared up the entire CRYPtic and mysterious situAtion—can you BEAR it, my dear? ACtually, I was too imPRESSED and simply SEETHing to have him TELL me MORE when the whole THING was comPLETEly RUined by ARab, my dear, who came STAG'ring vaguely into our MIDST to inQUIRE with an IMbecile expression if he could interRUPT—can you COPE with it? HONestly, my dear, I was PRACticably ready to go MAD and BITE myself with BAFfled IRE—do you BLAME me? But the NEXT time Basil and I had a coy TETE a tete, my dear, it was POSitively too HECtic! I mean I KNOW you'll SWOON with a faint and foggy YELP when I TELL you about it, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Nancy's Mistake

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

Daily Short Story

GEORGE OSBORNE, hardly to credit his good fortune, had not driven three miles from the home of Nancy Meredith, before Nancy decided that, after all, she had made a mistake in promising to marry him.

It had been a weakness of the head, not of the heart, she reflected. For, while she was in his arms, listening to his tender avowals of love, she had felt perfectly sure, perfectly content.

Now, however, sober, second thoughts were assailing her. How could she, Nancy Meredith, have thought for a moment of accepting good old George when all her friends, her family, were expecting her to do the brilliant thing by walking off with Lloyd Crossman, only son of the man who had made a fortune in Amazon Valley Rubber?

She hadn't said "yes" to Lloyd, but she had let him say a great many things to her without contradicting him.

Curled up on her gray cretonne-cushioned day bed, she gazed out across the blue waters of the Sound where white sails shone. Among them, no doubt, were those of Lloyd's "Silver Wing."

And, as she gazed, she ran over in her mind possible ways of getting herself out of this situation without hurting dear old George's feelings.

She couldn't remember a time when she had not known George. Ever since dancing school days he had been as faithful as a watchdog. There really was no particular reason why she shouldn't marry him.

As manager of an exporting company, his salary would support a wife in comparative comfort. There would be a decent apartment and a maid or two. A good car and an occasional trip to Bermuda. But he was no Lloyd Crossman with a hundred-acre estate, racing stables and a shooting lodge in Scotland.

Nancy came to the conclusion that the problem she was trying to solve needed two brains.

Flying to her dresser, she called a friend that was almost as ancient and faithful as old George. And much more astute.

"Come over at once, Joan," she demanded imperiously. "I'm in a mess and you've got to haul me out."

Nor, when Joan arrived, did Nancy beat about the bush. "I got myself engaged to George Osborne this afternoon and I feel in my bones that Lloyd Crossman is going to ask me to marry him Friday night at the Lawn Club hop during the intermission."

Joan helped herself to one of George's chocolates. "Being engaged to one man," she remarked, "is usually a good reason for turning down the second man, Lloyd will understand."

"But you don't," cried Nancy. "I made a mistake about George. It's Lloyd I want to be engaged to!"

Joan looked up quickly. Then she helped herself to a cream peppermint. "That complicates matters," she murmured. "Especially with George and Lloyd being around so much. Of course, if either of them were out-of-town men, you might get away with it."

"Oh, do be serious!" Nancy was exasperated.

"Never more so," retorted Joan. Then "Is George going to be at the hop?"

"I doubt it," said Nancy. "He hates dances. I planned, sometime ago, to meet Lloyd there. He is to get in late from something or other somewhere."

Joan drew a long, deep sigh as one does who braces himself for something that must be gone through with. "I've got a confession to make," she said. "I—I didn't feel free to do so before because I always supposed, others to the contrary, that you and George would end parading side by side to the good old Mendelssohn tune. But now it can be told. I am simply wild myself over George. And, with you out of the running, I believe I could get him."

"Well," said Nancy, after a moment, "you're a sly little creature, Joan Bailey. Who would have dreamed—you and old George— Not but what it's perfectly fine!"

"George is so solid!" cried Joan earnestly. "And he'll go far. And he'll always be devoted to the woman he marries. Not but what Lloyd—" she stopped lamely.

Lloyd was not noted for his staying qualities. He might be a good catch, but Nancy would, by no means, be his first fiancee.

"Even if you are crazy about George," said Nancy. "You could hardly detach him from me by Friday night!"

"That depends," said Joan calmly, and to a nougatine. "Give me leave to try?"

"Certainly," and Nancy spoke with dignity.

The evening of the hop arrived and, beyond getting two dozen gorgeous Richmond roses with George's card inside the florist's box, Nancy had had no word from her fiance. Nor, for that matter, from Joan either. She felt piqued and, as she left in her roadster for the club, she did not look like a girl who expects, before the evening is over, to say "yes" to the catch of the season.

She was late because she had stopped to write a note to George to be dispatched if her evening turned out as she expected it to.

"Dear George:

"I made a mistake when I promised to marry you. I am going to marry Lloyd Crossman. NANCY.

"P. S. Where have you been?"

When she reached the low rambling cut stone building with its wide veranda running entirely around it, she found Joan and George there ahead of her, standing in front of the blazing logs in the fireplace and looking straight into each other's eyes.

Lloyd came up at once and claimed the next dance. She went through it, watching Joan and George, who certainly did not spend it watching her. She never saw two people so absorbed in one another.

Intermission came and George—her fiance, mind you, the last time she had seen him—had sought no opportunity to speak to her. Given her no chance to tell him she had made a mistake.

How could she say "yes" to Lloyd before taking back her "yes" to George, considering he was right there?

She escaped her last partner and went out to the veranda where she leaned pensively against a vine-draped pillar.

A step behind her and a quick, eager voice recalled her from deep, sad thoughts. "Nancy, I have been looking everywhere for you. You know I'm simply mad about you, of course. What I don't know is when we are going to be married."

Now was the time for Nancy to do one or two things. Explain the situation or explain nothing and fall into his arms.

Nancy did neither. "I'm not ever going to marry you at all," she said crossly. "Don't be silly." And so evidently was Nancy in dead sober earnest that Lloyd, dumfounded, stood staring at her for a moment, then turned on his heel and walked slowly, thoughtfully away.

Joan saw him enter the ballroom. Saw the look on his face. "Oh, George!" she whispered. "She's refused him! I think if you go to her now and tell her how we planned this little stunt to make her jealous—if she hadn't really loved you she wouldn't have minded thinking I did, you know—I think she'll be mighty glad to see you!"

A few minutes later, Nancy was speaking to George. "The mistake I made was in thinking I made a mistake before!"

At that same instant, up in the ladies' dressroom, Joan was dabbing her eyes with powder and talking sternly to the image that confronted her in the mirror. "Don't be a little darn fool, Joan! Of course, you have always known George and Nancy were meant for each other! Of course, you don't love George. But—" and here she drew a long, deep sigh, "you could have, my dear, ah, how you could have loved him!"

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Wright Charges Absurd. Not Here in November. Release Fixed Earlier.

More Warner Rumors Leach Back in Game. New Wrestling Act.

BUSH TO ENFORCE BUC DISCIPLINE

NATURALLY, neither the baseball fans of this region nor the officials of the Pittsburgh club were greatly disturbed by the reports from the Dodger training camp that Manager Wilbert Robinson had set up a squawk to the effect that he had been David Harumed in the Wright-Petty-Riconda trade; that the Pirate management had known of the injury to Wright's shoulder when it made the swap, and that he would appeal to League President John A. Heydler to annul the deal.

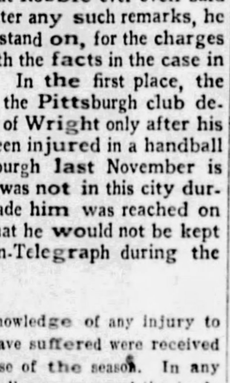
Wilbert Robinson.

Of course, the whole thing is absurd. Few believe that Robbie ever even said it. If he did utter any such remarks, he hasn't a leg to stand on, for the charges do not fit in with the facts in the case in any particular. In the first place, the allegation that the Pittsburgh club decided to get rid of Wright only after his shoulder had been injured in a handball game in Pittsburgh last November is clearly without foundation, as Wright was not in this city during that month and the decision to trade him was reached on the last day of the regular season. That he would not be kept was published in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph during the world series.

THE Pirate officials say they had no knowledge of any injury to Wright, and that any hurts he may have suffered were received after he left Pittsburgh following the close of the season. In any event the rumor that League President Heydler may cancel the trade is ridiculous, as he has no such authority. Each club took its own chances in the deal and must abide by the terms of the dicker.

Anyhow, it is understood that Wright's injury is not nearly so serious as has been reported. "Several ligaments were displaced at the discal terminus of the clavicle," reports Dr. Cecil Ferguson, former big league pitcher, who treated the shortstop. "Such displacements are not unusual, and they are not hard to remedy. Two treatments should mean the end of it, and there is no doubt that Wright's arm will then be as good as ever."

ONCE again they have Pop Warner retiring from football. That yarn has been heard at regular intervals during the last few years, but the former Pitt mentor goes right on winning games and championships and knocking over teams that have been touted as invincible.



Pop Warner.

This time the story comes from Palo Alto, dispatches from there announcing that practically all of the Stanford University athletic coaches, Warner included, will eventually throw up their jobs because of the decision of the university authorities to reduce the size of the freshman class.

"WARNER is not at all pleased with the size or ability, particularly the size, of the men who will be coming up to him for spring football practice," one report says, "and, according to Dink Templeton, the track coach, has actually expressed his intention of giving up his position as head football coach at the end of two years, for he does not care to risk his laboriously-earned reputation upon teams of material greatly inferior to that of Stanford's opponents. The Old Man is generally credited with being the smartest professor of football in higher education, yet if his teams fail for any reason the blame will come around to him.

"THE alumni will commence to howl that 'he's too old,'" the story continues, "so Warner intends to give over his disciples to some other, and to settle down in ease at home in Palo Alto, his reputation safe, even if Stanford's gridiron supremacy is not."

There is no doubt that the cutting of the freshman class to 450 men from a previous total of 600 will affect athletics at Stanford, and give Warner less material each year for his football teams. For instance, freshman football last year attracted only 55 candidates, against 110 in 1927, and the present frosh turnout for track is only 25, against a previous annual average of 75.

BUT in spite of that, none of Warner's friends in these diggings is willing to believe that he has any serious intention of retiring from the game to which he has devoted his life. Problems and obstacles that would dishearten many a coach serve only to make Pop work all the harder.

He doesn't give up in the pinches, so the chances are that he

FIFTH AVENUE'S FIVE PLAYS HOMESTEAD

By JESS CARVER

Chester Briggs' diminutive Fifth Avenue High School basketball team, red and white outfits and all, will easy to reach the final round of the W. P. I. A. L. elimination tournament tonight, along with Bellevue, by tackling the blue-clad cohorts of William (Smiling Bill) Campbell, court coach at Homestead.

Tonight's battle cry is "Don't sell out, old Homestead!"

Fifth Avenue has been more or less the wonder team of the tourney. The boys are wondering how come they are still in there. The club met Stowe Township and Freeport, failed to show real championship caliber in either game, but nevertheless, took the decisions. Brains rather than brawn, appears to be Fifth's strong point.

All joking to one side or the other, this Fifth Avenue team is a smart little club. Lou Skeegan and Marty Reiter are clever players, dribbling and passes well, but their ability to think a step or two ahead of most rivals makes them the threats they are. It is just a clever passing, smart team like Fifth that is liable to bump Homestead out of the race.

GAME TOSSUP

Of course, with Birch, Bill Campbell's crack guard, functioning like he can, holding together the Steeltowners and making 'em play basketball and with Oates, the center playing the game of which he is capable, Homestead will be an even choice with Fifth tonight. At that, I think the boys are allowing Fifth's ragged showing in the two City League title games with South Hill's influence them too much. Fifth has played better ball in the W. P. I. A. L. than in the City League, far better.

Bellevue lived up to its reputation for consistency and gained in the regard of the fans by soundly trouncing Uniontown last night, 26-to-11. Bellevue was over the Cokers like a mortgage, from start to finish.

I have little doubt but that Larry Danver's North Boro team will be established the favorite in the final round. None of the teams engaged in this year's competition have shown the all around ability of last night's victors, who have put on a fine display of a point-getting offense and a solid defense.

BELLEVUE BRILLIANT

The entire team combined to rocket through Uniontown last night and four of the five starting regulars provided the scoring thrills. Uniontown, passing, raggedly, shooting hurriedly and showing a weak defense, never had a chance, trailing all the time with the exception of the first two minutes of play.

Bellevue went to the front, 7-to-4, in the opening period, field goals by Smith and Seigel and three fouls by the former providing the points. Uniontown scored on

Bucs Laugh Off Wright Deal Charge

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 13.—The latest rumblings of the Wright-Petty, Riconda deal were being laughed off by Pirate officials today.

"If Wright had a sore arm nobody on this club knew anything about it," quoth Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss. "They had a good chance to see to that," chipped in Burleigh Grimes. "We finished the season in Brooklyn and Glenn was right there in the old short field." From other sources, however, it is reported that Glenn was injured in an automobile accident after he returned home.

The Pittsburgh officials had no word of any accident, and if Glenn had a sore arm when the swap was completed they knew nothing of it, and therefore cannot be charged with sharp practices.

HORNET SEXTET BLANKED, 5-0

By CARL W. SHATTO.

With Ren Manners and Wallie Kilrea leading the attack, the Philadelphia Company skaters overwhelmed the Hornets, 5 to 0, in the first game of the West Penn Amateur League's titular series at Duquesne Garden last night. The second game of the three-game set is to be played Saturday night.

Dinny Manners, Utilities defense ace, suffered a severe injury to his back early in the first period and was forced from the lineup. The Hornets, too, were handicapped in that the Coulter brothers, their offensive stars, were not able to get into the fray until late in the second period. The Coulters, arrested on an assault and battery charge sworn out by Bob McSorley, were not able to free themselves from John Law until that time.

The spectacular, effective team play of Manners and Kilrea easily was the feature of the contest, and McCrimmon proved an able front line mate. The Hornets tested Brooks several times, but he easily handled the thrusts that penetrated through McGovern and Cooper.

The lineup:

Philadelphia Co.	S.	Hornets—0.
Brooks	G.	Frazier
McGovern	D.	McCutcheon
D. Manners	D.	Cohen
Kilrea	W.	Martin
R. Manners	W.	Malone
McCrimmon	W.	Campbell

Philadelphia Company spares—Quinn, Adams, Cooper and Lutz.

Second period—No scoring. Penalty—McGovern, roughing.

PLAY TITLE GAME

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 13.—Washington's independent basketball championship is the stake for which the Washington Moose and the Washington Eagles will be striving when they meet on the Armory floor here tonight.

RAY KREMER IN PINK OF CONDITION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 13.—The uncertainties of baseball are without number and these controlled elements give the sport a rich flavor. Yesterday on the Yanigan bench the hitting of the various Regulars was discussed. Ervin Brame, who was slated to work the late innings of the game, dwelt at length on George Grantham.

"George is a great hitter, especially if you get the ball below his belt," mused Brame as Boots came to the plate to face Remy Kremer. Kremer bore out Brame's testimony by pitching high to Grantham and he succeeded in retiring him, although one of the outfielders had to sprint toward the fence for the ball.

"Give him a low ball and he'll drive it clear out of the park for you," said Brame, who started to warm up about this time. Not many minutes later Ervin was in the game, Grantham was at bat, the tying and winning runs were on the sacks and two were out.

BRAME "MISCUES"

Brame was careful with George, but the same thing that happens to many stars occurred at the big moment. Ervin tried to get a high ball over, but his control was a bit off, the ball being about waist high or lower. Lucky for Brame, it was not a fast ball. Ervy slowed up on the pitch, but George made a fast ball out of it, his sharp liner hitting the distant right field fence on the first bound.

Every veteran in camp is beaming over the form displayed by Frenchy Kremer. Ray looks better right now than he did on Decoration Day of last year. When he went to the mound this afternoon he was light on his feet and the stuff he showed the Regulars had them quite astounded.

When Frenchy is right, he has a peach of a curve, a remarkable change of pace, a good fast ball, fine control, and best of all, rare pitching intelligence. I don't know how smart Matty was, but the vets at Paso Robles all class Kremer as one of the brightest pitchers in the game.

CARDS BRING $50 FINES

The four young men fined for playing cards in the hotel rooms against the orders of Manager Bush are wondering whether Santa Claus will come, provided they are good boys. Fifty smackers is quite a sock in the ribs when it is considered that the athletes are not drawing pay. However, the lesson should not be lost.

It seems that Adam Comorosky and several others who stopped playing when the order was given helped to furnish the excitement in the games that brought the complaints. Bush was telling Commy that the room held more cigaret butts than he ever saw any place, and inquired of Adam just how so many could be produced by one party.

The smiling Polish boy tried to explain, but he had everybody laughing as he did so.

"If you had four kings" elaborated Commy, "and some guy with four queens sitting next to you makes a bet, you'll throw that cigaret anywhere to get action on raising the pot."

GLENN WRIGHT IN BASEBALL LIMELIGHT

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Glenn Wright seems to have stolen the show at the Brooklyn Robins training camp. The big shortstop was the subject of almost all the talking that was done here yesterday. He is undergoing treatment for a shoulder injury, alleged to have been incurred before he was traded to Brooklyn by Pittsburgh. Wilbert Robinson has threatened to carry the case to John A. Heydler, president of the league, if Wright's shoulder doesn't respond to treatment. Latest advices from Miami, where the shortstop is under the care of a physician, indicate he will be ready to play within a week or so.

CARDS TO USE REGULARS

AVON PARK, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Manager Billy Southworth's regulars will get the call in the remaining exhibition games of the St. Louis Cardinals, he said yesterday, the experimenting with recruits being over.

YANKS PRESSED TO WIN

TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—More batting practice seems to be the chief need of the New York Yankees. The world champions opened their exhibition schedule yesterday by nosing out Tampa club, 1 to 0. All told the Yankees got only eight hits and three of these went to Antonio Lazzeri.

GIANT CRIPPLES RECOVER

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 13.—(AP.)—Most of the cripples in the New York Giants' camp have recovered. Carl Mays, Fred Fitzsimmons and Andy Reese are ready to return to duty. Mays, who broke a thumb when he knocked down a line drive some days ago, got back into action yesterday and Reese's "charley horse" has disappeared.

PHILS SET FOR MACKS

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—The so-called lowly Phillies with two one-sided ball games to their credit, were unusually peppy today as they made ready to welcome their hometown rival, the Athletics, in a regular battle tomorrow.

TIGERS ON LAST LAP

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 13.—(AP.)—Another strenuous routine drill yesterday in which all hands participated, started the Detroit Tigers on their last week of preparation for the exhibition season which opens Monday at San Diego, Cal., against the Hollywood Club of the Coast League.

RAIN, COLD HALT REGULAR, YAN GAME

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 13.—The backward spring at Paso Robles is cutting into Pirate plans, yet today is expected to bring a happy climax to the camp season, provided the skies clear up and the wind warms. The champion Seals of San Francisco are due to invade this village this afternoon, the idea being a diamond battle with the Freebooters.

In view of the happenings of yesterday the Pittsburgh boys are a bit doubtful as to playing the postponed contest with the Seals. Smiling skies greeted the Buccos as they awakened yesterday morning, but a cold wind kept the thermometer below 60 during the day and whilst the Regular-Yanigan battle was in progress in the ball orchard, the wind shifted enough to bring down a heavy shower. The athletes had reached the fourth innings at the time of the downpour, play being continued until the finish of the sixth round when Manager Bush stopped the proceedings with the Regulars victorious, 5-3.

NATIVES BRAVE COLD

Quite a few of the natives braved the cool breezes and rain to see the big leaguers in action. A small admission was charged and the officials were eager to put on a good show for the loyal supporters of the Paso Robles Fair and Athletic Association, but the chilling rains eventually caused the Pittsburgh pilot to get his athletes away from the scene. There was no need for risking an epidemic of heavy colds for the sake of a camp battle.

Lee Meadows made his first start of the preparatory season, but the comeback veteran left the scene after twirling the fourth round. Lee held the Regulars runless in this round, but the appearance of the rain constrained Bush to yank the spectacled flinger off the hill. Apparently Lee's arm is able to stand the strain of pitching again.

The game marked the debut of Jim Stroner, who still is suffering from the effects of his appendicitis operation. It was the intention of Bush to play Stroner only four innings, but the recruit was able to play the six rounds despite the cold and wetness.

STRONER HITS DOUBLE

In Jim's first appearance at the plate he gave his bosses a pleasant sensation by slamming a fiery double down the left field line that collided with the fence with a bang, the wallop driving in the first tally of the game. Louis Martin tripled to left in the first and with two out and Martin on base Stroner walloped out his long drive.

Remy Kremer, looking like the Kremer of several years previous to last season, threw the Regulars back in an impressive manner during the first three rounds. When Kremer left the scene the Yans were leading by a score. George Grantham nicked the right field fence with a double with two out in the fifth, the punch scoring two runs and putting the first team out in front.

Ervin Brame found the Regulars in a batting mood. Grantham struck his blow on Brame and the tall righthander was solved in the sixth after loose play had placed him in a hole. The first team tallied three times in the sixth. The Yans also rallied in this frame after getting the tying run on the sacks with none out they folded up.

BELLS SELL PITCHER

STOCKTON, Cal., March 13.—(AP.)—Manager Wade Killefer of the Mission Club has announced the sale of Nelson Greene, left handed pitcher, to the Reading Club of the International League.

HOWLEY READY TO CUT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Already the Rookies know how many places are open for them on Manager Dan Howley's St. Louis Browns. Howley set a numerical classification yesterday of 10 pitchers, seven infielders, five outfielders, and three catchers for his June 15 limit of 25. The roster shows three pitchers, two catchers, two infielders and one outfielder are due to get the hooks.

FORMS TWO TEAMS

BRADENTON, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Manager Bill Carrigan, of the Red Sox, has taken a leaf out of Knute Rockne's book. Following the scheme initiated in football by the Notre Dame coach, he has laid his plans for using two complete nines of approximately equal strength in the Grapefruit League, which has its local opening today with the Red Sox facing the St. Louis Cards.

LEAGUES TO MEET

TWO meetings of the Wagner sandlot baseball leagues will be held this week at their headquarters, 211 Wood street. Tomorrow evening the juvenile circuits will get together for the purpose of posting forfeits. Twelve teams are lined up. Friday evening the semi-professional loop will gather.

MAT AND RING SHOW CARDS COMPLETE

Ray Fabiani, Philadelphia wrestling promoter, who is trying to revive the mat sport in Pittsburgh today through his local representative, Leon Balkin, announced the program for his opening show in the Moose Temple next Monday night.

Three bouts are on the card, the windup to a finish, the semi-final with a 45-minute time limit and the preliminary with a 30-minute time limit.

Two giants of the mat will appear in the main event. They are Jim Clinstock, the Sioux Indian, who formerly played on the Haskell Indians' football team, and Jack Washburn, of Chicago. Clinstock is 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 225 pounds. Washburn is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 220.

DICK CURLEY HERE

Dick Curley, of Chicago, who also is anxious to stage mat bouts here, was a visitor in the city yesterday to talk matters over. He came from Youngstown, where his boxer, Mike Dundee, of Rock Island, Ill., scored a two-round knockout over Joe Gonzales Monday night. Mike visited with a sister here.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has rounded out the card for his show in the Palisades Rink tomorrow night with the signing of Eddie Brennan, of Pittsburgh, and Tommy Heilman, of Donora, 133-pounders, to meet in the opening bout. Brennan is a Negro lad just quitting the amateurs. He won four bouts in the recent amateur tournament held in the McKeesport arena. Young Rudy boxes Phil Scollo and TNT Gibbons meets Leo Kyburski in the two 10-round feature battles, and the second bout will bring together George Kerston and Howard Williams.

Manager James (Red) Mason yesterday signed for Young Rudy to box Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, at Oil City next Tuesday night.

MOOSE PROGRAM FULL

Billy Dacey, of the Hill, and Sam Hunter, local Negro light heavyweight, have been matched to box the second preliminary at the Moose Temple Friday night, completing Promoter Flynn's program. Dominick Profio and Tiger Joe Randall will meet in the 10-round windup. Hughey Haggerty and Mickey Selmen in the semi-final, and Sammy Paris and Nat Litfin in the opener.

Leo (Kid) Roy, of Canada, will sub for Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, former bantamweight champion, in the semi-final to the Al Singer-Bud Taylor bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night. His opponent will be Irish Bobby Brady.

Gus Sonnenberg Defends Title In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 13.—(AP.)—Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, of Detroit and Providence, R. I., world heavyweight wrestling champion, retained his title here, throwing Fred Myers, of Chicago, in two straight falls.

Sonnenberg combined a butt, half-Nelson and a crotch hold to win the first fall in 23 minutes. The second came on an arm lock in 11 minutes.

NUSS TO COACH W. & J., SAID

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 13.—Wash-Jeff is admittedly in the field for a capable basketball coach for next season. Andy Kerr, who has been tutoring the Presidential floor candidates for the past three years, wound up his efforts in this department of athletics with the game at Morgantown last Saturday night with West Virginia. Kerr has signed a three-year contract with Wash-Jeff starting with next season, but the document provides for his coaching football only.

It became apparent here today that an organized effort is under way to have Charles Nuss, former Wash-Jeff star and later coach, return to his alma mater as basketball tutor. While no formal approach has been made Nuss by the basketball authorities, it is known that he is under consideration.

GATE ATTRACTS GRADUATE MANAGERS

By JESS CARVER

The size, or lack of size, of the gate and not the outcome of the ball game, whether it be football, basketball or what have you, is what worries the modern graduate manager of athletics at our leading colleges and universities. If you think chaps like Buddy Overend, John Holohan, Andy McDonald, Harry Stansbury and others hereabouts up nights fretting because the varsity took one on the button the day before, you're crazy.

Min Murray.

Of course, there are exceptions, which only go to prove the rule. Don Harrison at Pitt concerns himself more or less with how the game is coming out, and Bill Theurer at Wash-Jeff and Edgecomb at Geneva are inclined to join the cheering sections once in a while. But they, too, have one eye cocked on the ticket sale. And why not?

The best one of the year has been told on Harry Stansbury, of West Virginia. He was a speaker at a Weston, W. Va., banquet on the same program with Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, and was asked to tell of the greatest football play he ever saw.

"The greatest play I ever saw was on the occasion of the West Virginia-W. & J. game in 1925, he said. "Why, we actually turned 'em away."

MURRAY FINE PROSPECT

Francis (Min) Murray, Ambridge High School athlete, is headed for Bellefonte Academy, according to some more of that inside information that comes this way every now and then.

Murray plays football, baseball, basketball and boxes. He is an exceptionally valuable man on the diamond and gridiron. A consistently good kicker and passer and a rugged and game ball toter, he will add power and class to Bellefonte's 1929 squad should he matriculate there.

He played defensive guard on this year's Ambridge High basketball team, and according to his coach, Silent Moe Rubenstein, played it well. Players who competed against him tell me he was an exceptionally accurate passer and a neat ball hadler, both important factors in the success of a court player.

DUKE GRIDDERS DRILL

Thre Dukes stole a march on the boys by calling out the football men for spring training yesterday, and will have 'em at it again this afternoon. Maybe there was something secret about it all, and may hap I'm pulling a boner by making this announcement in these columns. Leastways, no mention was made of the drills until last night, after the boys had been out all day. What if the folks had wished to view the drill? Teh, teh.

Coach Layden plans to hold a practice game, like he staged last year, toward the end of the training period. Joe Vernon, the basketball center and a tackle on the Duquesne team of 1927, reported for the drill yesterday. He laid off during the 1928 season.

HUNTER IN TOURNEY

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP.)—Frank Hunter filed an unexpected entry today for the national indoor tennis championship here, beginning Saturday, in which he becomes a joint favorite with Jean Borotra, of France. The New Rochelle, N. Y., veteran, who is ranked second to Bill Tilden in the country, previously indicated definitely that he would not compete.

Triplex to Go After Record Today

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Lee Bible, carefree Jack of all trades, today has stepped out of the grimy overalls of a garage owner-mechanic into the ranks of the world's fastest racing car drivers.

The 42-year-old mechanic was to be given the "golden opportunity of a life time" to use his own words, as the driver of the Triplex, powerful racing car of J. M. White, of Philadelphia, and he expected today to attempt to wrest from Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, of England, the title of speed king of the automobile world.

But not without a struggle from Maj. Segrave. He too was expected to try to better his own mark, or that which Bible believed he could set.

Meanwhile there was an obstacle for Bible to surmount. The races here are timed and sanctioned by the American Automobile Association. Bible does not belong, and has not been qualified by it to race, but he drove the Triplex yesterday at the rate of 199 miles an hour while A. A. A. officials looked on and while they did not give him their sanction to drive today they were to time the race, and indicated he would be granted membership if he made the grade. Otherwise he does not even want it.

PORTO, HUSK WIN

MASSILLON, O., March 13.—Frankie Porto, 124½, of Glassport, Pa., shaded Tablo Blanco, 123¾, of Havana, in their 10-round bout here last night. In the six-round semi-final, K. O. Husk, 165, of Akron, and Patsy Petrone, 163, of Canton, fought to a draw.

JACKIE RODGERS ON M'LARNIN, MILLER CARD

NEW YORK, March 13.—Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight, of Pittsburgh, has been matched to meet Sammy Tisch, of New York, in one of the six-round bouts on the Jimmy McLarnin-Ray Miller return bout card in Madison Square Garden Friday night of next week. The bout will mark the first New York appearance of Rodgers, who comes highly touted as a rival of Kid Chocolate in the matter of showmanship.

Joey LaGrey will box Freddie Polo and Sammy Dorfman will oppose Jimmy McNamara in 10-round battles.

The Garden is virtually sold out for the McLarnin-Miller bout. It was whispered about today that there may be no box office sale of tickets for the event in view of the large mail advance sale.

Genie Is Coffroth Handicap Favorite

SAN DIEGO, March 13.—(AP.)—Twenty or more starters are expected in the tenth annual renewal of the Coffroth Handicap, at the Tijuana race track Sunday. The $130,000 event is the world's richest stake race.

The future book favorite is Gifford A. Cochran's Genie, scheduled to carry top weight of 126 pounds. Genie will be ridden by the New York riding luminary, Willie Kelsay. He probably will have the Man O'War mare Valkyr as a running mate.

LIGHTERS TAKE SECOND HALF HONORS

Duquesne Light came from behind to whip P. & L. E., 31-to-28, in a crucial Commercial and Industrial League game at the South Side Market House last night. The victory caused the elimination of the railroaders from second half league honors and necessitated for the third consecutive season, Duquesne's playing in the post-season series, the win assuring it of the title for that playing period.

The Lighters will engage Kaufmanns, winner of the first half, in the first game of the title series, next Tuesday night on the same court.

Getto or McMillen To Coach Jeannette

JEANNETTE, Pa., March 13.—Joe Harrick, athletic director of Jeannette High School, announced today that he has accepted a similar position at Johnstown, and will leave the Rubber City at the conclusion of the present school year. At Johnstown, Harrick will have supervision of three junior high schools in addition to the high school.

Harrick came to Jeannette in 1925 and became assistant to Lloyd Jordan, former Pitt star, who left last year for Colgate. He then succeeded Jordan. He is a graduate of West Virginia University, where he was a star tackle and all around athlete. Last fall, Harrick produced a Westmoreland county football champion. Associated with Harrick was Blair McMillen, former Pitt star, and together they coached a quintet this winter and won the county floor title. Speculation on Harrick's successor points to either McMillen or Mike Getto, former Jeannette High star, who played on the Pitt eleven last year and won all-American honors.

Von Porat Easy Winner Over Tom Heeney

CHICAGO, March 13.—(AP.)—Otto Von Porat, scholarly appearing Norwegian walloper, knocked a few ch off Tom Heeney, the hard rock from down under when he decisively defeated him in a savagely fought 10-round battle in the Coliseum last night.

Heeney at the finish presented a bloody spectacle, hanging on desperately, or backing away from the Norwegian's vicious assault. The New Zealander suffered an ugly gash in his lower lip in the tenth round. In a twinkling his face was crimson with blood.

Von Porat, displaying unusual boxing skill for his awkward appearing style, was credited with winning seven of the 10 rounds, with the opening two going to Heeney and the seventh being even.

Fritzi Stifel Wins; Miss Fordyce Loses

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Battling to the very last hole, Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, who shared the medal honors, was eliminated in the first round by Jane Brooks, of Nyack, N. Y., 1 up in the Belleair women's golf championship.

Bernice Wall disposed of Mrs. Jo Roberts, of Philadelphia, by 4 and 2. Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, of Philadelphia, former national women's champion, eliminated Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, O., 2 and 1. Fritzi Stifel, of Wheeling, W. Va., advanced by downing Mrs. B. F. Pellenz.

Interest in the championship centered in the match between Miss Wall and Miss Stifel today. The winner clashes with the victor of the Stetson-Palmer match in the semi-finals.

HEIDELBERG READY FOR AKRON

By TOM BIRKS

Secretary McEwan, of Cleveland, in ordering the playing of the Heidelberg-Akron Goodyear national cup game at Heidelberg Saturday has given to soccer fans in this district a chance to see the greatest soccer team organized in Ohio for many years in action.

When Dunlevy bowed to defeat at the Charleroi Ball Park earlier in the season, Pittsburghers were astounded. Dunlevy, one of the greatest home teams ever, was a hard nut to crack, but thanks to an overtime period in which the Ohioans ran Dunlevy to a standstill, the Rubber Town aggregation turned the trick.

That was a sloppy field, and fans who feel that Heidelberg will win easily on a heavy field are doomed to a disappointment. Can the defense that held Dunlevy hold Heidelberg?

The Green and Gold is ready. Buff Donnelli seemed very disappointed when told that the game was postponed last Sunday, and should the weather be all right Elmer Layden, the Dukes mentor, is going to take in his first game watching his backfield star in action. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Layton, Taberski Lead in Matches

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP.)—Johnny Layton, world three cushion billiard champion, and Allan Hall, of St. Louis, split even in two blocks of their 600-point match yesterday, Layton is leading at the end of the first four blocks 200 to 193.

Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., world pocket billiards champion, took both blocks of his 1,500-point match with Andrew St. Jean and now leads by a score of 508 to 405.

MEN WHO SMOKE AND GUARD THEIR HEALTH, SMOKE CIGARS

World Famous English Physician

Doctor C. Stanford Read, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., is a graduate of the University of London, Lecturer of Psychological Medicine to Bethlehem Royal Hospital, Clinical Psychologist to the West End Hospital for Nervous Diseases.

"Popular opinion and scientific knowledge are not always in accord. The cigar is usually looked upon as a strong form of smoking and yet it contains much less nicotine than the cigarette. There is, however, good reason for believing that other products of tobacco smoke are more harmful than nicotine. The commonest of these, an Aldehyde known as Furfural, is responsible for the irritating effect on the mucous membrane of the naso-pharynx. This is always present in the smoke of the low-priced and popular American cigarette, while it is practically absent from cigar smoke."

C. Stanford Read

Its outstanding cause is — "FURFURAL." Furfural is a by-product of smoking tobaccos which have been flavored or cured with such substances as glycerine, sugar, licorice and saltpeter. Furfural is most irritating to the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, and particularly when inhaled. For it not only sets up a condition that causes coughing, but, in addition, one that is most injurious to the nerves.

Cigars contain no such irritant. For the choice, full-flavored cigar tobaccos need no artificial flavoring. Cured by wind and sun, they are smoked as nature made them—mild, smooth, rich in taste and fragrance. Nor need cigars be inhaled to enjoy their flavor — for a cigar yields the greatest possible pleasure that can be obtained from tobacco and without inhalation. So its use brings none of the consequences that usually attend indulgence in other forms of tobacco—throat irritation, unsteady nerves, impaired digestion and other complaints common to smokers.

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar (OVER A MILLION A DAY). Its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality.

If you would feel better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality and less of that tired feeling—make this test for one week—SMOKE CIGARS EXCLUSIVELY.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigars—over a million a day—you can smoke them, confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar, an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

PHILLY STADIUM LET

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—(AP.)—Mayor Mackey has signed a contract granting exclusive use of the Sesqui-centennial stadium, to Joe Kennedy, veteran promoter, of this city, for outdoor boxing bouts this year. The stadium is the site of the first Dempsey-Tunney bout, which was witnessed by more than 100,000 persons.

REVIVE DISPUTE OVER JACK'S TITLE WIN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

It revolves about the question of whether Jack Dempsey knocked out Jess Willard in the third round or the fourth round of their fight at Toledo, in 1919, in which Dempsey won the heavyweight title.

Willard quit in his corner before the fourth round. The record books credit Dempsey with a knockout in three rounds.

Now, the question is, did Dempsey actually win in three rounds, or did the fight go into the fourth round?

Obviously, Willard finished the third round, so he was not knocked out in that session. And he quit before the fourth round and it is claimed the bell was not rung for that session. If the bell had been rung and he had failed to answer it, he would have been automatically declared the loser in the fourth round. But he weathered the third round and the testimony is that there was no fourth round.

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien one night outboxed Stanley Ketchel by a wide margin in a 10-round bout in New York, but just before the final bell Ketchel nailed him and pickled him for keeps, depositing him in a resin box outside the ropes. Before O'Brien could be counted out, however, the bell ended the fight and Jack had won the popular decision on points. They could have counted a million over his prostrate form, but that didn't matter.

Now, then, when a man finishes a round he cannot by any stretch of the imagination be figured to have been knocked out in that round. And yet when there is no next round, how can he be said to have lost in a session that never existed? Before they get through with that one, they'll likely dope it out that Willard didn't lose at all and Dempsey never was heavyweight champion. Or perhaps that they never even met.

A Lithuanian reports that Jack Sharkey's real name is not Josef Paul Cuchoskny, as it has been written so often, but Juozas Povilas Zukauskas. Maybe that's what's been the trouble with the gabby gob all along.

Cleveland is making fine use of its Public Hall as a sports arena this week, every night being booked. Sunday and Monday nights saw professional basketball games being played there and last night Gus Sonnenberg, the wrestling champion, performed in the spacious auditorium. Tonight and tomorrow and Friday nights it will be used for an amateur boxing tournament and on Saturday an indoor track and field meet is scheduled.

The West Virginia Legislature is dabbling with a boxing bill again. The House of Delegates passed it the other day by a vote of 56 to 25. Boxing is supposed to be illegal in the state, yet bootleg shows are run regularly in the larger cities. They might as well legalize it and have the sport properly conducted.

Lou Magnolia, the referee of the Sharkey-Stribling bout, made a few pertinent observations in a radio talk a few evenings ago. One was that Jack Dempsey had spoiled the boxing fans insofar as heavyweight fighters go. Since Jack's palmy days they turn up their noses at all the big fellows who can't knock out well-conditioned foes. They discount the boxing skill of men of the Tunney and Sharkey type and don't give them a tumble. Truer words never were spoken. Another crack by Magnolia was that he believes Sharkey would have stopped Stribling if they had been fighting over the 15-round route. If he had done that he would have accomplished something that no other opponent ever achieved against the Southern strong boy, so Boston Jack isn't the worst fighter in the world at that, is he?

FIFTH BATTLES HOMESTEAD

The three point lead was increased to four by half time. Seigel flipped in another hoop. Birch shot two fouls and Updegraff one. Zacovic scored all of Uniontown's points in this quarter, getting a goal from the floor and two out of four fouls. The Bellevue captain Smith went out on personal fouls just before the half.

RALLY CHECKED

Uniontown's hopes of a rally were put on the blink shortly after the second half began, when Birch popped in a field goal. A few seconds later, Zacovic left the game for the same reason. Smith had in the first half and the ball game was over for Uniontown. The team was outscored 14-to-3 in the final two periods, with Bellevue improving in its play despite the insertion into the lineup of replacements.

Brown, the center, who'd been a silent factor in his team's play from a scoring angle until the last period, came through with six points, taking up the burden where Seigel and Smith left off. The lineup:

Smith	F	Zacovic
Segal	F	Corey
Brown	C	Woods
Birch	G	Maust
Uptegraff	G	Rankin

Substitutions—Stankey for Smith, Cooley for Uptegraff, Fike for Woods, Woods for Rankin, Ford for Zacovic, Heinbaugh for Maust, Johns for Fike. Field goals—Segel 2, Brown 2, Smith, Stankey, Birch, Zacovic, Corey. Fouls—Bellevue 12 out of 22; Birch 4 out of 5, Brown 3 out of 4, Smith 3 out of 7, Seel 1 out of 4, Uptegraff 1 out of 2. Uniontown, 7 out of 15; Zacovic 3 out of 5, Corey 3 out of 6, Ford 1 out of 1, Johns none out of 1. Referee—Max Hannum. Umpire—Lewis.

GENE SARAZEN, FARRELL LEAD

MIAMI, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Superior craftsmanship on the short shots marked a steady advance by Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, defending champions in the international four-ball golf matches, in the first nine holes of their semi-final contest with Willie MacFarlane, Westchester, N. Y., and Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Key West, Fla. The national open champion and his partner were two up at the turn of the morning round.

Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen, favorites in the other match of the tournament, were one down at the turn to Henry Cluci, Bridgeport, Conn., and Joe Turness, Elmsford, N. Y., after the latter had missed two apparently easy one-foot putts at the sixth and ninth holes.

MELLON WINS

Mellon Bank defeated New Kensington All-Stars, 47-21, last night.

England Leads In Cricket Match

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 13.—(AP.)—England captured the remaining six Australian wickets today to retire the side for 491 runs and took a 28-run advantage into the second innings of the fifth cricket test match. England's first innings score was 519.

The advantage, however, was quickly nullified when Jardine was caught at the wicket on the first ball bowled him. England batted but a few minutes before bad light compelled a halt to the day's play, leaving its score 18 runs for the loss of one wicket.

FORMER GRIDDER DIES

LEWISTON, Idaho, March 13.—(AP.)—David McFarland, 57, rated in his college days as one of the greatest football players in the country, died here last night. McFarland was developed by Pop Warner, now of Stanford, who once offered the Indian a job as his assistant. McFarland coached football at the University of Idaho two years after his graduation from Carlisle and then returned to the Nez Perce reservation, where he was official government interpreter.

Long's Sport Comment

will go right on coaching in the face of this latest handicap and continue each year to add another brilliant chapter to his matchless record as a football wizard.

Tommy Leach.

TOMMY LEACH, Pirate star of old, appears to be one of those baseball veterans who just can't stay away from the old game. Several times he has announced his retirement to go into some other business, but in every instance he eventually changed his mind and came back. Last year Leach started out as manager of the St. Petersburg club in the Florida State League, but when that league blew up he announced that he had taken his final whirl at the sport and was done for good and all. However, the coming of another spring appears to have stirred Tommy's baseball blood. Once again the lure of the diamond has proved too strong for him to resist.

FROM Atlanta comes the news that Leach has accepted a post as lieutenant to Wilbur Good, the former Leetsdale citizen who will manage the Atlanta club in the Southern Association this year, and reported in camp yesterday to assist Good in whipping the Crackers into shape.

Tommy is 51 years old, but he still is a mighty handy man to have around a club. He had the wrong temperament to become a successful major league manager, but he carries on his shoulders one of the wisest and smartest heads in baseball.

AN IDEA of the difficulty that the fistic matchmakers in this district are up against sometimes, when it is suddenly found necessary to make a change in one of their scheduled bouts, may be gleaned from the fact that it took Tom McArdle, of Madison Square Garden, in New York, two days to dig up a satisfactory substitute for one of the boxers booked to appear in a preliminary to the Al Singer-Bud Taylor fight next Friday night.

It looked like an easy matter to get anyother man when Charley (Phil) Rosenberg stepped out of his 10-rounder with Bobby Brady, with thousands of boxers of all sizes registered in New York, and dozens of fight critics and other volunteers suggesting good substitutes. Yet McArdle was kept busy for 48 hours before he finally succeeded in finding Leo (Kid) Roy, of Canada. All of the rest were busy, out of training, too good, or not good enough.

IT WASN'T because their offense was of a serious nature, but because they had violated an order, that Manager Donie Bush fined four young Pirates $50 each when he caught them in the act of transgressing the club's card-playing regulations. In other words, Manager Bush punished the youngsters as a warning to others, and to make it clear to all of the players that when he gives an order he intends to have it obeyed. The card-playing offense in itself was not serious, but Bush's action in the case is significant as indicating that he means to enforce discipline in general more strictly this year. Many fans will concur in his view that something of the kind has been needed.

Gus Sonnenberg.

GUS SONNENBERG, present holder of the world heavyweight wrestling title, will be in no grave danger of losing it very soon if he doesn't take any more chances than he has been taking during the last few weeks.

Sonnenberg, it is said is playing an even safer game than Young Stribling played in the boxing racket in touring the country and knocking out a lot of cab drivers posing as heavyweight fighters. Gus doesn't bother even to change opponents. Between Philadelphia and Albany he has thrown the same opponent three times in as many different cities within a space of only four weeks.

THE other half of the sketch has been sailing under the name of Jack Smith. That's original, at least. Plain John Smith has been used on police blotters a couple of times, but "Jack" denotes originality. It is said that Earl Caddock, former champion, might know something about the real name of Sonnenberg's mat partner.

Whatever may be his proper handle, Smith's operations with Sonnenberg have cost him another engagement in Philadelphia. A promoter there had intended to use him again soon, but after learning of his third straight meeting with Sonnenberg in three different towns he canceled the booking.

Chicago at Rangers.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—The play-off berths in the International Section of the National Hockey League stood mathematically settled today as a result of last night's games. Les Canadiens, Montreal's French team, clinched first place by defeating Toronto, 2 to 1, and will draw a by in the play-offs. The New York Americans sewed up second place by scoring a 2 to 1 victory over Ottawa here, while Toronto remains in undisputed possession of third place.

In the American Division of the league, the Boston Bruins need only one more win in two starts to clinch first place. They assured themselves of at least a tie by swamping the Chicago Blackhawks last night, 11 to 1, in the season's highest scoring spree. The New York Rangers can tie for first place by winning their two remaining games if Boston loses its two contests. The Rangers need one more victory to clinch second place over Detroit, the third-place team.

Fire Insurance The Bulwark of Trade

THE volume of trade in the United States is estimated at more than 80 billion dollars annually. Probably 90 per cent of this is transacted on credit.

The underlying safeguard of this credit is Stock Fire Insurance, with more than $150,000,000,000 constantly at risk in the protection of burnable property in this country.

This background of $150,000,000,000 of protection against disaster makes commerce on its present gigantic scale possible.

Few indeed are the activities of the home or of business that are not benefited directly or indirectly by the stabilizing effect of Stock Fire Insurance and the security that it affords.

Stock Fire Insurance is the silent partner in every enterprise—the Bulwark of Trade. It has rendered its service at a cost which on the average has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

Dempsey May Form Own Fight Syndicate

NEW YORK, March 13.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey, who leaves for Detroit tonight, hinted today that he may form his own fight syndicate there if the prospects are alluring. Meanwhile he is considering offers made late yesterday from two other quarters—the Madison Square Garden Corporation and the rival New York group headed by Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy and Edwin Cole.

After receiving the two bids for his services as a boxing promoter, Dempsey said no agreement had been reached. The former heavyweight champion intimated that the money offered was not enough.

Mrs. Mida Medalist In Florida Tourney

TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lee Mida, of Orlando, Fla., and Chicago, won the medal in the qualifying round of the Florida state championship golf tournament for women. Her score of 85 was better by one stroke than those of Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Valparaiso, Fla., and Chicago, the defending champion, and Mrs. J. H. Indig, of Tampa.

HOLD BOWLING LEAD

CHICAGO, March 13.—(AP.)—The Motor Inns of Pontiac, Mich., continued to lead in the five-men event of the American Bowling Congress tournament as booster teams from Chicago made futile attempts to hang up new records.

Schwartz Victor Over Belanger

TORONTO, March 13.—(AP.)—Izzy Schwartz, recognized in New York as flyweight champion of the world, won the decision over Albert (Frenchy) Belanger, of Toronto, in a 12-round match at the Coliseum here last night. Schwartz weighed 108¼ pounds, Belanger 111½.

Schwartz piled up an early lead, outfighting the Toronto youth in the first few rounds, and then was content to hold on to his advantage. Belanger staged a furious rally in the closing rounds but it could not offset the heavy lead Schwartz already enjoyed.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Go Higher

Local Stock Quotations

GOOD BUSINESS NEWS PUTS STOCKS UP

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP.)—With relatively low call money rates temporarily allaying uneasiness over the credit situation, the stock market moved forward today in response to an unusually large quota of favorable trade and business news. Nearly all groups in the industrial division participated in the upswing, which ran from 2 to nearly 10 points in many issues, with the coppers, public utilities, steels and oils giving the best demonstrations of group strength.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent, but that figure was shaded in the "outside market" where loans were reported as low as 6½. While a "money squeeze" late this week or early next week is still regarded as a possibility because of the heavy mid-month shifting of funds, Wall Street derived considerable encouragement from reports that gold shipments, totaling about $15,000,000, were on their way here from Argentina and Germany, the exchanges of which have fallen below the "gold import" points. Wall Street figures that each dollar in gold provides the basis for $10 in credit.

EARNINGS GOOD

Another series of excellent 1928 earnings reports, led by that of the American Sugar Refining Company, helped to generate bullish enthusiasm. Weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the continued heavy demand for steel products. Iron Age reported that "With current output close to the practical capacity of the steel furnaces, March is expected to set new records for both monthly and average daily production." Directors of the Michigan Central Railroad, more than 99 per cent of the stock of which is owned by the New York Central, declared a 100 per cent dividend as against a previous rate of 40 per cent, and extra dividends were declared on the A and B stocks of Devoe & Reynolds.

Radio Corporation issues were again heavily bought. The old stock, which has only about 10 days more of life on the "big board," ran up 8 points and the new stock changed hands in blocks of 5,000 and 10,000 shares at advancing prices. Allied Chemical soared 9 points, Pierce Oil preferred 8, Wright Aeronautical 6, Houston Oil 5½ and Commercial Solvents and Pacific Lighting ran up 5 points to a new peak at 85 on the announcement that the company had acquired the Southern California Gas Company. Peoples Gas jumped 5½ points to 281 and Electric Power and Light 3⅝ to 68¼, both new high records.

STEEL HIGHER

United States Steel common, Colorado Fuel, Mexican Seaboard, Midland Steel Products preferred, International Telephone and Underwood Elliott Fisher all sold 4 to 5 points higher. Walworth moved into new high ground on rumors of expanding earnings.

Shading of the call money rate to 6 per cent again brought another outbreak of buying in the last hour, when some of the volatile issues displayed marked buoyancy. Radio (old) mounted 13 points, Peoples Gas 9 and Johns Manville 7. Contrary to the general trend, Rossin Insurance fell back 9 points, after yesterday's jump of nearly 22 points, and A. M. Byers lost four points. The closing tone was strong. Total sales approximated 3,200,000 shares.

Rail Mergers to Progress? Tells Status and Outlook

—By B. C. FORBES—

WILL the Hoover administration clear the tracks for railway consolidations? Will Congress, at its special session, take occasion to indicate disappointment that its recommendations of 1920, embodied in the transportation act, have not been acted upon favorably by the Interstate Commerce Commission? Will the commission, knowing the Chief Executive's approval of all legitimate means to eliminate waste and to increase efficiency modify its heretofore obstructive stand?

The financial world is hopeful that events will bring favorable answers to these questions.

WHEN Wall Street is in cheerful mood few things are more conducive to fresh outbursts of bullishness than well-authenticated reports of impending mergers. Although one and one make two, and two and two make only four, speculators are governed by no such prosaic logic; when one corporation is added to another or when several corporations are lumped together, stock market operators usually act on the theory that the total will be much greater than the sum of the individual parts. Only sometimes does it work out in accordance with that reasoning. Not all consolidations have proved particularly profitable to stockholders.

However, it can be rather safely assumed that, should gigantic railway consolidations come definitely within sight, the stock market would celebrate more or less enthusiastically.

IT is interesting to consider what has happened in Great Britain. Several years ago Britain acted almost exactly along the lines recommended in our own transportation act. The score or so of railway lines there were harmoniously consolidated into groups, each to serve a particular section.

What have been the results? The sober truth is that the British railroads have not made great progress since consolidation. This is attributed, however, to increased competition on the highways rather than to lack of benefit arising from the consolidation effected.

AN authority on railway conditions and developments in Europe and South America as well as here, Frederick M. Halsey, New York investment banker, discussing the present status in this country, made these observations to the writer:

"The plans to consolidate into a great system the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern, the Burlington and one or two other lines, is strongly opposed by the St. Paul System. The Loree schemes to consolidate lines in the Southwest did not work out as planned. And although four or five years have elapsed since the Van Sweringens first announced their Nickel Plate grouping of lines, no final adjustment has been made, and only within the last few days has another plan been suggested, calling for a great system embracing 14,000 miles of railway.

"The Baltimore and Ohio plan, as announced a few days ago, is objected to in part. The Southern and the Louisville and Nashville have called attention to the Interstate Commerce Commission that they jointly control the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, and that they are not desirous of having it turned over to the Baltimore and Ohio system, or to anyone else. Probably the Pennsylvania will likewise have something to say about this plan, which includes the Wabash Railway, a large block of whose shares are now in its treasury. The Chicago and Eastern Railway, which has been included in the Van Sweringens' group is, it is understood, desired by the Pennsylvania as a part of its enlarged system, the plans of which have not yet been announced.

"The position of the securities of short-line independent and semi-independent railroads might well be studied by the discriminating investor, as many of them have very attractive possibilities.

"It is certain that in 1929 greater consolidation progress will be made than at any time heretofore. We can already visualize that the Middle Atlantic states will in future have four systems to the west: Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and Pennsylvania."

READY FOR NEW SPEED TRIALS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 13.—(AP.)—Weather conditions, which appeared adverse during the morning, improved this afternoon as the hour drew near for Lee Bible, local mechanic, and Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, of England, to make new assaults on the world's speed record for the mile straightaway.

J. M. White, Philadelphia, owner of the triplex which Bible has been engaged to drive in an effort to break Maj. Segrave's new record of 231.36 miles per hour, ordered his machine on the beach at 2:30 p. m. He has been allotted the hour preceding mean low tide, which comes about 4 p. m. today.

Maj. Segrave said regardless of whether his record was broken by Bible, he would attempt to raise the record to 240 miles per hour, weather and beach conditions permitting.

PLATE GLASS EARNINGS HIGHER

By GORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, earnings of which have been on the decline since 1923, showed a marked improvement last year. The development of new products and the use of new processes contributed to greater earnings, although prices of plate glass remained low.

The important factor about the increase of $2,055,418 in the net profit for 1928, as compared with 1927, is that it did not result from any important changes in general conditions affecting the company's business, except some improvement in volume. Most of the improvement was in the company's products and its methods of operation.

Last year's net after all charges was $8,468,775, or $3.91 a share on the 2,166,524 shares of stock. This compared with $6,430,355, or $13.05 a share in 1927 on the old capitalization. During the year the stock outstanding was increased by a four for one split and a 10 per cent stock dividend. The new stock is on a $2 annual dividend basis.

THE Company's troubles of the past few years can be laid at the door of foreign competition. As the glass factories of Belgium and other European nations recovered from the war, they began to flood this market with glass at prices so low that domestic producers with high labor costs had difficulty in competing. Prices of plate glass were practically cut in half as a result of the struggle for the domestic market, and window glass prices also declined.

Pittsburgh Plate's large number of related lines of business such as paints, varnishes, lacquers, brushes, cement and chemicals acted as a stabilizer of earnings during this period, so that the company fared better than many other glass producers.

THE company is meeting this depressed price condition by the construction of more modern plants. A new process has been developed for the drawing of sheet glass. The plant at Clarksburg, W. Va., is using two tanks equipped for this process and the Mt. Vernon, O., plant is using one. Appropriations have been made for a second tank at Mt. Vernon and an entirely new plant in Oklahoma. These plants will be able to supply the company's large warehouse system with all of its requirements for this type of glass. Arrangements are also being made for the use of the process in Europe.

About two years ago the second unit of a process for the drawing of plate glass was completed at Creighton, Pa. Since then $5,500,000 has been spent for improvements at Ford City, Pa. These improvements include the construction of new grinding and polishing equipment to be put into operation next June. Similar work on the plant at Crystal City, Mo., will be completed by the end of this year.

IN PREDICTING the future outlook for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, a large number of factors must be considered. On the favorable side the most important development will be the reduced costs expected as additional new plants are completed. In addition to this the tariff commission on January 17 advanced the duty on plate glass 4 cents a foot.

The company is also in a position to supply ¼-inch plate glass which is now coming into demand for residential use as well as in the production of laminated glass for automobiles. The predicted growth in automobile production, if it materializes, will also help from the standpoint of volume.

ON THE unfavorable side is the danger of domestic overproduction. The annual report points out that one new plate glass plant was completed in November, another is practically completed, two are under construction and another is contemplated. These will increase the domestic capacity to 180,000,000 square feet by the end of the year, and to approximately 225,000,000 square feet in 1930. This is against a consumption in 1928 of 150,000,000 square feet.

The growing use of laminated or shatter proof glass in automobiles may allow for the consumption of a large part of the increased capacity, since the new product requires two square feet for every single square foot used before. But regardless of whether improvement or further depression is shown in plate glass, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company will be found well equipped to meet any condition.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP.)—United States government issues again were the weak spot of the early trading in today's bond market. The general list displayed an improved tone, but trading was dull.

The feature of the investment market was the placing of $50,000,000 Cities Service Company 5 per cent gold debentures, carrying common stock purchase warrants and priced at 97½ and interest. Cities Service controls directly or indirectly through stock ownership more than 60 public utility companies and 30 oil companies.

In the irregular and dull foreign list Chile issues continued in supply at slightly lower levels following flotation of a $10,000,000 loan earlier this week. German issues also were under pressure.

Improvement in the general list was shown by a variety of issues, including International Telephone convertible 4½, Anaconda Copper 6s, Bethlehem Steel convertible 6s, International Cement 5s and St. Paul adjustment 5s. The gains, however, were fractional.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows; 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Congress Scores Idea of Drink Inquest.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(INS.)—Congress doesn't want any investigation of the "drink-wet, vote-dry" habit on Capitol Hill.

Suggestions that President Hoover's prohibition-fact-finding commission investigate the manner in which Congress itself observes the dry law today met with opposition among legislators. Neither wet nor dry leaders would comment on the proposal for publication. Privately, they all agreed such an inquiry should not be held.

While standing at the rear of the structure he said he saw a man run from a rear door, climb into an automobile and speed from the scene.

BUGS BAER Says

A RETIRED VICE PRESIDENT'S DAY

1. WAKES up after four-year nap.

2. Takes pipe out of his mouth.

3. Orders two eggs and autographs an omelet.

4. Vetoes the milk bill.

5. Suddenly remembers that he isn't getting paid any more for sleeping.

6. Jumps out of bed. Habit is so strong that he still wonders how his ex-President is feeling.

7. Before taking his bath he makes a speech dedicating the cake of soap to its noble purpose.

8. Rubs himself with towel marked White House.

9. Almost lights his pipe with one of his own matches.

10. Wishes the telephone would ring so that he could ignore it.

11. Reads the morning paper and doesn't find his name mentioned—as usual. Feels better.

12. Scrubs his teeth and puts them in again.

13. Feels lonely. Remembers that there is an old Colonial building in town whose cornerstone has never been dedicated.

14. Suddenly laughs when he remembers that he doesn't have to smile anymore for the weekly news-reels.

15. Takes a walk around his garden and bows to a couple of old neighbors who have never missed him.

16. Falls over a wheelbarrow. Pulls it aside and has splendid time opening up the path to commerce and the furtherance of international understanding.

17. Sees stranger staring at his silk hat and realizes that city-dressed beef must look funny in the country.

19. Looks at the site for the $6,000,000 postoffice that he promised to his home town. The postmaster is still dealing the postcards off a cracker box.

ED MORRISON WITH HIS STOLEN LOAF

It is not essential that the "big news" of the day be sordid or sensational. Outside of the "important" chronicles of happenings in our routine of life the big news may be just a simple little story, the duplicate of which might be discovered any day, but which comes to the surface through force of circumstances. A little tale of humanity, for instance, such as that which has given to a homeless, friendless, moneyless 72-year-old man a home and its comforts, with a florist in Mars, Pa., after he had tasted the bitterest drops in the cup of misfortune.

We refer to it because it has made visible a wave of human feeling, reflected in letters received by The Sun-Telegraph. The man, out of work and hungry, advanced in years, had been arrested for stealing a loaf of bread. That, if we are pessimistic, should have been fatal. So often have we heard about the hungry man who stole receiving a jail sentence while a rich malefactor in the same court was dismissed with a fine, or escaped free.

Ah, but life is not all that way. All is not a reflection of Hood's "The Song of the Shirt," with its lines "Oh, God, that bread should be so dear and flesh and blood so cheap." It was not that way in police court this time. There the first link in a chain of humanity in operation was welded.

The magistrate discharged him and gave him a dollar. That story, printed, caused the florist above mentioned to make offer of a home and employment to the man, whom he did not know and of whose whereabouts he was ignorant. That story, printed in its turn, caused a pedestrian to stop and look at an old man in the street. He had read both stories and recognized the stranger, through a printed photograph, as the one with whom the florist would like to get in touch—because their names happened to be the same.

ED MORRISON WORKING AMONG HIS FLOWERS

So another dollar passed to the man who had been reduced to stealing a loaf of bread, also food and instruction to proceed to Mars. That should be the end of the story, but it is not. Other letters came, among them one imploring the Sun-Telegraph to keep on publishing the offer of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison of Mars to provide work and a home—to keep on until the object of the search was reached. This writer, of course, did not know the "happy ending."

The real end of the story is the essence of the humanity of our people. Their heart-throbs were tuned in harmony with the necessity of a needy person. That essence of humanity would do for all unfortunate what was done for this poor man. All it needs to know is that the case be worthy. It would give the dollar, then, if it had it. If not, it would try to aid in some other way. just as the subscriber wished to help by asking for ...plication of the offer of aid, so that, by chance, ...een.

...ews does not all have to be sordid or sensational or important in order to be big in the eyes of our readers.

The Happy Whistler

Others Are Not So Happy.

"The man who whistles is a happy man; his mind is free from care." True very often, but whistling, while it may give pleasure to the whistler, annoys others when the whistling is done in public places, street cars, etc.

On the way to work in the morning when hundreds are busily engaged in reading the morning papers, trying to keep up with the times, a young man will whistle, producing what he thinks music most pleasing. But whistling disturbs and is not pleasing to ANYBODY.

Whistling, boisterous laughing, loud speaking, in public places, proves lack of respect for others.

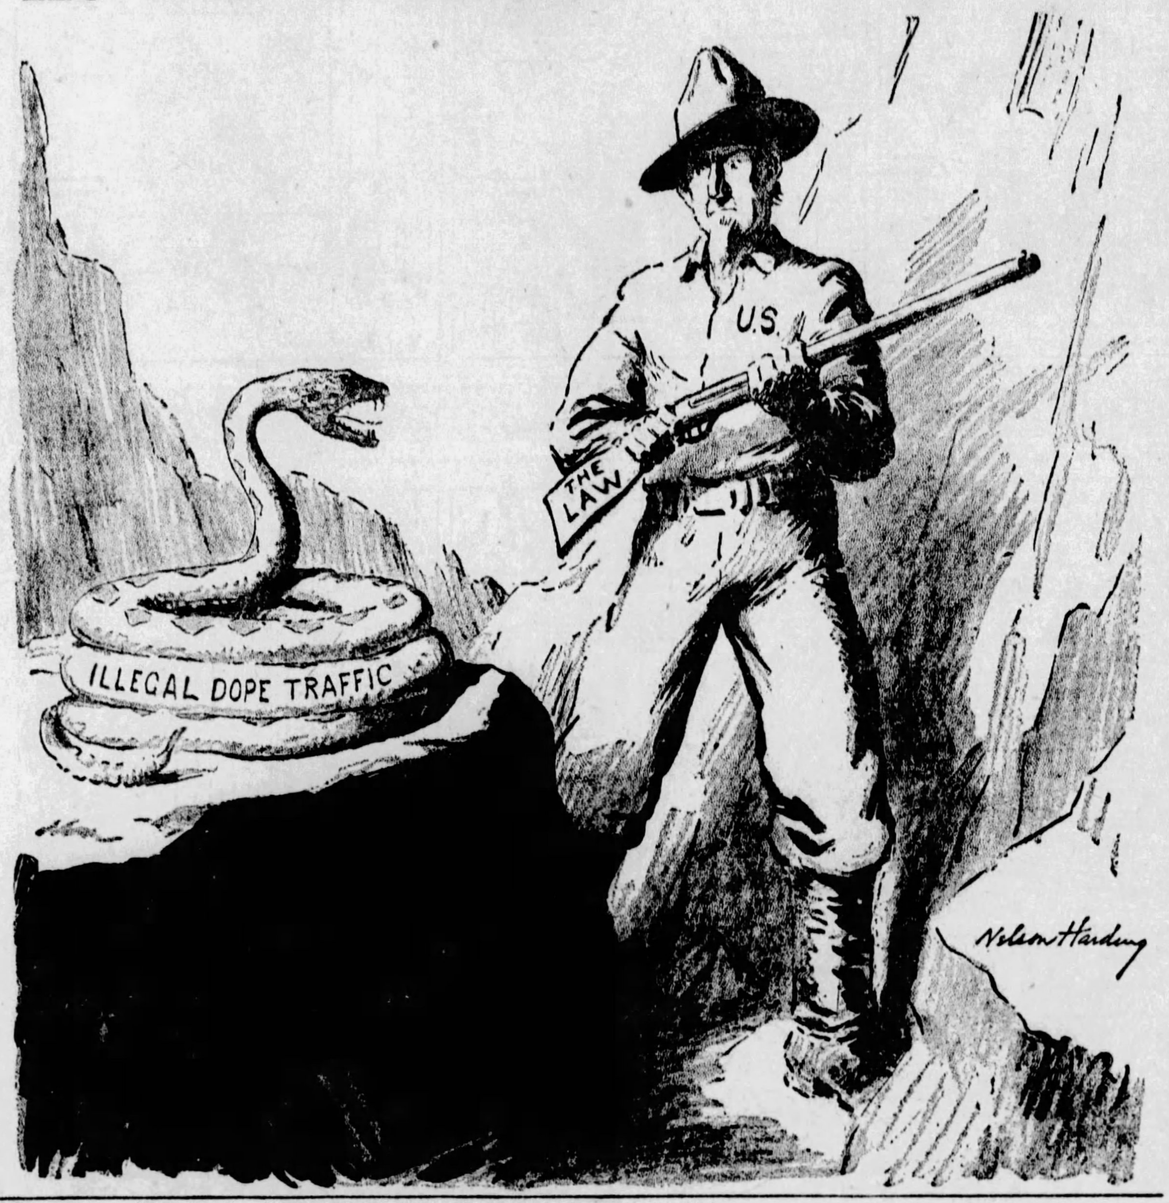
He Who Hesitates

By Nelson Harding



Tales That Are Told

Her Load

THE excursion train was crowded. In one carriage was a woman accompanied by a little girl and a boy. The children were full of high spirits and romped about the carriage, much to the other passengers' annoyance.

Finally one could stand it no longer.

"Madam," she said, "if you can't keep your children quiet I shall make a complaint.

The mother sighed.

"Your misfortunes don't compare with mine," she replied.

"My little girl has just swallowed our tickets, the boy has broken a carriage window next door, I've left my purse at home, and we're in the wrong train."

He Felt Just the Same

IT WAS the first time that the Robinsons had crossed the Channel, and after a few minutes, with the exception of little Willie, they all felt very miserable.

The small boy took a great delight in annoying his sea-sick mother, until finally she spoke to his father.

"George," she began, "I wish you'd speak to Willie."

The disconsolate parent turned round slowly. He gulped a couple of times and then remarked feebly:

"Er—er——Hallo, Willie, my boy."

Badly Phrased

He called at the house of a man who was suffering from an entirely imaginary complaint.

"Gracious me, doctor!" exclaimed the patient's wife. "You needn't have come out this terrible weather to see him. There's nothing serious the matter with Henry, you know."

The doctor looked at the woman and decided that perhaps it was a good thing that he had remained a bachelor, after all.

"Oh, not at all, madame," he answered smilingly. "I have a patient next door, and I thought I'd kill two birds with one stone."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a promoter in the good old days that started a resort town with all kinds of extra features down in Florida. He had traveled some, and he said he was going to put everything into this place that any other resort in the world had. So he got him an ocean right close at hand, and a beach, and he built a casino and a mountain or two, and set up a forest. But one of the hardest things to get just right was the Echo Cavern. It was so close to sealevel that it was awful hard to get the cavern, say nothing about the Echo. But he did succeed in getting a cavern at the bottom of the mountain, and, after a lot of fussing with engineers and things, he got it working. The tourists had great fun with the Echo, which bawled back at them right hard.

Finally the poor promoter had some hard luck, and was in court, and it was hard for him to get a character witness. But he finally dug up one by the name of Towner, and this guy testified to the promoter's good character, and that he had never done anything off-color about the whole scheme.

"What's your connection with the defendant?" says the lawyer of the other side.

"Why, I'm the Echo at the Echo Cavern," he says.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE'VE had letters like this before. We'll have them again.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Just what rights are due a mother and wife? What is the average woman entitled to, holding such a position?

"A Wife."

Legally, as regards the disposal of property and authority over children, a wife and mother has as many "rights" as her state grants her. Such laws vary with every state. But, of course, "legal rights" are not what this wife means. She is after something much more vital to her happiness—the "right" to be loved and respected, the right to receive tender consideration from her family. Not legal service, but heart service.

How much heart service has a wife and mother the right to expect?

AS MUCH AS SHE HERSELF CAN WIN BY HER CHARM AND STRENGTH OF HER OWN CHARACTER, AND NOT A BIT MORE.

We cannot be given the "right" to love or respect.

WE MUST WIN SUCH RIGHTS FOR OURSELVES OR GO WITHOUT.

A woman does not accumulate war crosses and halos merely because she has become a wife and mother. There is nothing inherently sacred in the terms "wife"—"mother."

ANY MALICIOUS MORON CAN BECOME A MATRON OR A MAMA—AND MANY MALICIOUS MORONS DO.

IT TAKES MUCH MORE THAN A WEDDING RING OR BIRTH CERTIFICATE TO ENTITLE A WOMAN TO RESPECT AND DEVOTION.

It takes humility and honesty and humor—much humor.

Many women make lovely brides and delightfully young mothers, but their mental growth stops shortly thereafter. They feel that having achieved wifehood and motherhood they are automatically entitled, for the rest of their lives, to the gratitude of the rest of humanity. By the time the youngsters are ready to enter high school, mama's mental equipment is apt to be as obsolete as the dodo. Serene in her complacent motherhood, she has not thought it necessary to keep up with the times. As a consequence, she tangles with the children on a dozen issues a day.

It is as necessary for her to keep herself up to the minute and struggle for the respect of her associates, as it is for any other worker.

"But what about the awful ordeal of motherhood and the years of service to helpless infants? Don't they count?" wails some indignant parent.

Yes, they count. But they do not count any more than any other intelligent devoted service counts.

I am a mother. I also supported my child for all his years. I know the relative burdens of fathers and mothers. AND I'M HERE TO SAY THAT WE MAMAS PUT FAR TOO HIGH A VALUATION ON OUR TUMMY ACHES AND HEART ACHES.

THE HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE HAS NOTHING WHATEVER ON THE HAND THAT BRINGS IN THE BACON!

STARS AND METEORS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I have just read of meteors falling in space from the constellation Perseus to our globe, and being reduced to powder by the resistance offered in our atmosphere. But, how can they fall out of the gravitation of that far-away constellation, travel through space and be attracted by the gravitation of the earth?—D. Mintzer, Bronx."

YOU share a very common misconception about the relation of meteors to stars. Since meteors are often called "shooting" or "falling" stars, many people think of them as coming from among the stars, if not as, themselves, actual stars "shot from their sphere."

When the astronomer speaks of the August meteors "radiating from the constellation Perseus," he means only that those particular meteors (for there are many different swarms or "showers") seem to come from a point lying between us and the stars of that constellation.

The starry heavens form a background, or, as it were, the interior of an enormously vast dome, in the midst of which our earth and its sister planets revolve in orbits around their star, the sun. The meteors are minute bodies countless in number, but generally associated in such a way as to resemble long-drawn-out swarms traveling in orbits around the sun. In certain cases these orbits intersect the orbit of the earth, so that when the earth is crossing one of the meteoric streams, thousands of the little bodies become entangled in the atmosphere and, their speed being reduced, while their temperature is raised, by the friction, they are burned up in the air.

Besides the meteors, which cause the appearance of fiery "showers" when they encounter the earth, there are many others which do not appear to be associated in swarms, but which wander individually, or in small companies, around the sun. A few of these may be seen on any clear night, coming from various directions in the sky. The watcher notes what well-known constellation of stars lines up with the meteor when it makes its appearance, and then he says that it started from that constellation, or from near some conspicuous star, bearing a name like Aldebaran, or Sirius.

When a single meteor is seen it darts across the sky until it fades out and disappears, crossing, it may be, many constellations, as a mail-bearing airplane crosses many states between its starting point and its final destination.

But when a "shower" of meteors occurs, as happens especially in August and in November, the paths which they pursue across the stars may all be extended backward to a point where, if they were fixed lines, they would be seen to meet. This is called the "radiant," and the meteors which seem to disperse themselves in all directions from the radiant are called by the name of the constellation against which, as against a background, their radiant point appears. The August meteors are called the Perseids, from the constellation Perseus; one of the November showers is called the Andromedes, from the constellation Andromeda, and another the Leonids, from the constellation Leo.

But neither these constellations nor the stars that compose them have anything to do with the meteors. The latter are, like the earth, attendants of the sun, a sort of planetary dust scattered through the solar system, somewhat like the dust that fills a busy mill or factory.

Bible Passages

Jerusalem

(Ezekiel 15)

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

Son of man, What is the vine tree more than any tree, or than a branch which is among the trees of the forest?

Shall wood be taken thereof to do any work? or will men take a pin of it to hang any vessel thereon?

Behold, it is cast into the fire for fuel; the fire devoureth both the ends of it, and the midst of it is burned. Is it meet for any work?

Behold, when it was whole, it was meet for no work: how much less shall it be meet yet for any work, when the fire hath devoured it, and it is burned?

Therefore thus saith the Lord God; As the vine tree among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so will I give the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

And I will set my face against them; they shall go out from one fire, and another fire shall devour them; and ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them.

And I will make the land desolate, because they have committed a trespass, saith the Lord God.

The Rhyming Optimist

Every Morning

EVERY morning a surprise
Waits for my enraptured eyes;
Every morning I confess
Wonder at Earth's loveliness.

Not alone on Summer days,
With the robins chanting praise;
But on Winter morns like this
All the world is filled with bliss.

Woodlands are of crystal snow,
Sleet and snow on every bough
Making of once-leafy lanes
Forests where enchantment reigns.

And enchantment seems to dwell
In men's hearts where Winter's spell
Weaves its webs against the cold,
Love and kindness manifold!

Every morning brings its new Shares of daily tasks to do;
Every morning I confess
Wonder at life's loveliness!

Isn't It So?

Pop-Guns for Dragons

By Herbert Kaufman

THE $200,000 which Congress is asked to appropriate for sterner narcotic suppression won't even put milk teeth into the law.

Thus Washington goes dragon-hunting with pop-guns.

There are a million "habituals" in the United States, and less than five hundred investigators are expected to trace them, cut off their supplies and eradicate the vermin who prey upon their infirmity.

But instead of shuddering at the immensity of dope consumption, marvel, instead, that half the adult population of the United States isn't nursing some "yen."

Thirty years ago, about the only drug on the contraband list was cantharides, and the sale of that, sporadically prohibited.

Cocaine, introduced in the early nineties as an anesthetic for optical operations, had revealed so little of its treacherous quality that apothecaries dispensed it even to children, in full crystalline strength, as a toothache stopper. And society belles used a 10 per cent solution to brighten their eyes after a fatiguing day of visiting and shopping.

Laudanum and choral could be bought without prescription—anywhere.

If you wanted a bottle of morphine tablets with hypodermic needle, you laid down the price and received them over the counter.

It was a rare patent medicine that didn't include its hypnotic. And especially the cough remedies.

Certain catarrh and hay fever nostrums set more innocent people on the straight path to hell than statistics shall ever learn.

Country physicians ordered heroin compounds in gallon lots, and dosed "lungers" daily with the deadly stuff.

A popular brand of snuff owed its market prominence to the tons of cocaine which it annually carried.

Several "soothing" syrups were loaded to the guards with opium. They most effectually stilled crying babies—and not infrequently for keeps.

All of which tends to explain why we have a million drug addicts in the United States.

And, also, why purblind and penurious legislation is throwing money to the winds, while it continues to stint border patrols and internal regulation.

This concerous growth is too deeply rooted and widely spread for intermittent and partial treatment.

It will take a costly instrument to cut it out of the social body—a secret service of thousands—squadrons of planes to clean the skies of smugglers—regiments, not corporal guards, of watchers at ports of entry—and adequate forces to police licensed opiate production clear down the lanes of distribution.

As it is, we might as well send a tin St. George against the Beast.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 13.—Broadway achieves its most furious boil when the theater curtains fall at night. The barrier flies up for those off for the night resorts. The all night shops tune up for trade. Sidewalks are overflowing and the White Way becomes its whitest.

From everywhere drift the gleaners and the proverbial moths to the flame. A thousand fiddles screech and as many saxophones moan. From limousines is the flash of ermine and white shirt fronts, jewels and silk hats. Midnight movie lines often circle the block.

It is the hour when those cafes catering to masculine women and effeminate men are the busiest. In the night clubs, "celebrities" are dramatizing themselves all over the place. The song sheet shops, the souvenir stores and catch-penny shows add their tom-tom to the din.

Along Forty-second street the Flea Circus does the biggest business of the day as do the shirt and necktie "Special Sales" and jewelry auctions. Soft drink stands are packed and flatchested ladies who peddle Birth Control tracts from doorways have their breakfast sale.

The carnival spirit is pronounced. Sidewalk salesmen of mechanical toys prosper around midnight. "Drunks fall for 'em," said one, pointing to his gimcracks. And just as in Paris, there are those whispering hawkers of naughty pictures and guides who know wicked places.

The photomaton parlors—slot machine photography—also have waiting groups. Any enterprise suggesting a lark flourishes on Broadway after the play. Around on Sixth avenue, the shooting galleries, almost lifeless during the day, buzz a rat-a-tat-tat after midnight.

About Columbus Circle is a sprinkling of pasty faced men with coat collars up and hats pulled down—"snow birds" furtively seeking tomorrow's supply. The last of the big signs flicker out at 3 a. m., and Broadway is deserted save for gutter scavengers salvaging cigar stubs, bottle tops and perhaps a toupee or so.

Park avenue's new glorified Automobile Row is a several blocks long stretch window display of the finest of home made and foreign cars. Some of the clerks wear cutaways and lapel flowers and many customers are received only by appointment. There is one where prices are never mentioned. If you like a certain car, the vulgar financial details are sent you by letter.

It is possible to book practically any good vaudeville act on the American stage for a private entertainment—if you will pay the price. The important vaudeville circuits maintain agencies for such bookings and there are many independent agencies also. At a recent party by a Wall Street broker the stage talent cost $4,000 and included two complete chorus numbers from Broadway shows.

One of the night clubs features a ring toss—a sort of parlor horse shoe pitching — between dances. There is also a $5 prize for anyone who rides a high bicycle around the room. The evening concludes with a lucky number contest and the fellow who holds the corresponding hat check number wins a brown derby.

Such old-fashioned antics in night clubs are at least a relief from the boys with greased hair who slide a dinky piano up to your table and warble one of those tear-jerking balads falsetto. If you're drunk its no telling what you'll give them, singing so sad that way and everything.

The Metropolitan Club, on upper Fifth avenue, is known as the Millionaire's Club and it might be supposed it would be a good "pitch" for beggars, but a policeman near there says it is not. "Them babies," he said, "cannot be whined out of a nickel." And that may be why "them babies" have so many nickels.

Underneath this two-flights-up business suit beats the heart of the Royal Northwest Mounted. Eventually, we will get our man.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHY do you drive yourself so hard all the time?

You put all your mental and physical force into the motion of doing, and your action very likely misses its purpose.

Perhaps you are the sort who is always in a rush, never able to catch up.

Then you work too much without a plan.

Study your job a little more and make out a program and follow it.

You will accomplish more and not have to push yourself so much.

You have a mistaken idea that hurried motion is desirable.

You have the idea that you are not working unless your physical being is busy.

You have not trained your mind to guide your efforts.

Plan your day, your order of things, the detail essential, and then carry on with a definite method, and see how much easier you will do more than usual.

As long as you work without a set program you will be in a hurry and you will not accomplish what you would if you cut out waste motion and thought more of what you were doing.
